An Interesting Talk with an Interesting Man.

How Mrs. Tilton Came to Testify Before the Committee.

She Was Entrapped into Doing It by a Crafty Lawyer.

She Said that Nothing Improper Had Passed Between Her and Mr. Beecher.

Mr. Tilton Characterizes the Statement as a Deliberate Falsehood.

But It Was Uttered with the Best Motives in the World.

Arrangements for the Complete Separaof Man and Wife.

Generous Provisions Made for Mrs. Tilton by Her Husband.

New York, July 16.—Your correspondent had an interview with Mr. Theodore Tilton this morning at Mr. Tilton's residence, in Livingstone street, Brooklyn. The correspondent was received at the door by Mr. T. himself, courteously greeted, and conducted to the library, a a sunny little room, separated from the parlor by sliding-doors. On the walls were many beautiful pictures in oil and steel engravings, among them the famous painting of Shakspeare, show-ing the scar over the left eye, by the artist, William Page, who, with other noted Shakspearean scholars, contends that the face of the poet bore the blemish. There also was the celebrated painting of Christ, made by Page, from sittings of Tilton, his friend, whom the painter thinks resembles the great Advecate of Mankind. Mr. Tilton himself opened the conversation by thankfull on himself opened the conversation by that aring The Taranus, through its correspondent, for the calm, impartial way in which it had treated questions at issue between the pastor of Plymouth Church and himself. Some newspapers had jumped to conclusions, and had from the outset attributed his conduct in the case either to insanity or to mercenary motives, but THE TRIBUNE, with judicial acumen, had refused to condemn until evidence of guilt was brought

MRS. TILTON'S COURSE. fore the Investigating Committee has never been told from an authoritative source. At the correspondent's request, Mr. Tilton related it as told him by his wife. Her associates all along have spondent's request, Mr. Tilton related it as told him by his wife. Her associates all along have been prominent members of Plymouth Church and warm friends of Mr. Beecher. By them she has been urged from time to time to go forward and tell all she knew of the difficulty, and end the scandal at once and forever. The cause of of religion had already been injured by it, and the prosperity of Plymouth Church was endangered. If her husband had spoken the truth, and was suffering from apprehensions that he had 'spoken falsely, it was her duty to vindicate him.; If her pastor was the injured man, it was her DUTY to arrotte the Hinted Charoes of her husband. This advice did its work, and the result was that, through a friend, she asked Mr. Beecher what it was best for her to do. Mr. Beecher announced that it would not be proper for him to see or advise her in the matter, but recommended her to his lawyer, Gen. Benjamin P. Tracy, one of the most prominent members of the Brooklyn Bar. She wrote to Gen. Tracy, who replied by appointing an interview for last Thursday evening at the residence of a mutual acquaintane, who, it is needless to say, was one of Beecher's friends. She was at the place named at the stated hour. Gen. Tracy appeared promptly. He ADVIKED HER TO TESTIFY REFORE THE COMMITTEE, and told her what questions she might expect to be asked. While they were yet conversing, all the members of the Lavestigating Committee came in, one by one, without doubt by preconcerted arrangement, and some one remarked that the present was a convenient time for her examination. Everybody thought this was a remarkably apt suggestion, and it was acted upon.

Miss. Tillton Was Only Asked Two Questions:

examination. Everybody thought this was a remarkably apt suggestion, and it was acted upon.

MIS. TILTON WAS ONLY ASKED TWO QUESTIONS:
First, Was there ever any improper intercourse between Mr. Beecher and yourself? and, second, Did Mr. Beecher ever make any improper overtures to you? To both these questions she answered No. Then the lady made a brief address. She insisted that both her husband and Mr. Beecher were great, honorable, and worthy men, who were at loggerheads through a singular misapprehension. She dwelt on the harm done to the cause of Christianity by the false stories circulated about Mr. Beecher, which put him, who had forty years been urging on the people the beauty and wisdom of a virtuous and religious life, in the light of a hyporite and knave, and spoke of the sufferings of her husband till nearly all her heavers were in tears. Thus closed the examination. "Poor woman," said Mr. Tilton to your correspondent, "SKE IS GUILTY OF DELIBERATE FALSEROOD on that occasion, but it was from the best of motives in the world."

In response to a question as to his motives for keeping silent so long, and at last consenting to make specific charges, Mr. Tilton said that all his personal friends who knew the facts had, before Mrs. Tilton announced that henceforth their paths lay apart, advised him to EEF SILENCE FOR HER SARZ, and, as this accorded with his own sentiments, he had done so; but now that, by leaving him, she had withdrawn herself from his protection and, to a certain extent, from his pity, he was no longer under obligations to keep sisence. His friends now insisted that it was his duty to himself and to his children to make a statement, and prove that he had not been heedlessily or deliberately swearing away a man's reputation. These were the motives of his conduct. He had made little progress with the statement. He was constantly interrapted by reporters of the local press, who, when he had declined to unburden himself of all his secrets to them, went away and manufactured stories and publishe him.

THE DOCUMENT WOULD BE READY, HOWEVER, which the time for his appearance before the Committee arrived, next Monday might. It would be carefully drawn and affidavit made to its result, a every next make to its truth in every particular.

Answering further questions, Mr. Tilton said that his friends were very indignant at the audacity and wickedness—yes, he thought he was justified in saying the wickedness—of Mr. Beecher in appointing a committee to make an investigation of the case. None understood better than Mr. Beecher the intense misery that an impartial investigation of the facts must engender. If Mr. Beecher anticipated that his Committee would make a fair investigation and render an honest vardict, his act in forming it was identical with the cool signing of a warrant for the utter ruin of an innocent man's (Tilton's) home, and issuing the death warrant of his own reputation as an honorable Christian man; but he doubted if Mr. Beecher anticipated any such thing. It was merely a piece of bravado, though of the most wonderful bravado under the circumstances, on record. Mr. Beecher believed, he supposed, that the offer to have an investigation would exonerate himself before the public, and that the reluctance of his accuser to make specific charges, since it would affect the reputation of one who had been cheriahed by him (the accuser), would not be overcome even by this last great provocation.

THE SEPARATION OF MR. AND MRS. THATON was very quietly made. On Saturday she notified, nim of her intention. He assented, and she went away. The wife has no ill-will for her husband, neither has the husband any for the wife. That this is true is now proved. Since Saturday they have mutually agreed that papers of separatirn should be drawn up in legal form. It was proposed that the matter be left to the respective lawyers of the two. Mr. Tilton refused to do this, and said he was content to leave it in the hands of Mrs. Tilton refused to do this, and said he was content to leave it in the hands of Mrs. Tilton refused to do this, and said he was content to leave it in the hands of Mrs. Tilton refused to Mrs. Tilton is step-father, who, while he retains all his affection for his daughter, has been and still is a warm personal friend of Mr. Tilton. With rare generosity Mr. Tilton is having papers drawn deeding the beautiful house and all that it contains to Mrs. Tilton. The act is done without solicitation. When the papers of separation are finished, Mrs. Tilton will return to her old home, and he who has shared it with her for many years goes out from it forever, leaving behind him all the beautiful pictures, rare books,—everything except perhaps a few books of reference.

THE CRILDREN
who are now with him, will remain in the house with their mother. Mr. Tilton will take rooms

in New York.

A Brooklyn evening paper says that a prominent resident of that city is ready to go before the Investigating Committee and swear that Frank Moulton once declared to him that he had never seen Mr. Beecher's letters to Mr. Tilton in which the divine "humbled himself as he did before his God," and that no such document ever existed.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

EAST SAGINAW, Mich., July 16.—Goldsmit Maid, on the Saginaw Driving-Park to-day, trotted not only the three fastest consecutive heats on record, but two heats, the slowest of which was better than the best time on record. The race was for a special purse of $5,000 offered by the Association, and divided as follows: $2,500 to the first horse; $1,500 to the second, and to the first horse; $1,500 to the second, and $1,000 to the horse which beat the best time on record. Goldsmith Maid won three straight heats. in 2:19%, 2:16%, and 2:16. The only contestant in the race was Judge Fullerton, both horses doing spleudid rotting throughout. The only break in the three heats was made by the Maid in the first quarter of the first heat, when she lost some three or four lengths, Judge Fullerton leading to the home stretch, where he was collared and passed by the mare, who won the heat by a length. Judge Fullerton was beaten about two lengths in the second and four in the third heat, but did some rulierton was beaten about two lengths in the second and four in the third heat, but did some magnificent trotting notwithstanding. Fullerton was driven by Dan Mace, and the Maid by Budd Doble. Fullerton's time was 2:2014, 2:1834. The track was in splendid condition, and the weather all that could be desired. About 8,000 persons witnessed the performance.

Between the heats of the great race a match was trotted by Elia Wright and James Howell, Jr., the former driven by Doble, and the latter by Mace. Ella Wright won the race in three straight heats, in 2:29, 2:26, 2:29/4. The race was a very good one, and the track is 1 mile and 3 feet in length.

of the "soiled doves," on South Clark street, were filled with females of the most revolting aspect, who looked fiercely, with dogged, bloodshot eyes, at the passers-by. Sometimes they broke out into drunken laughter and, occasionally, uttered blasphemous language in reference to the verrible experience through which they had passed. One woman, with a very red nose, exclaimed, "Well, we're all going to hell anyway, and Chicago is a good place to get used to heat." This and kindred expressions were current all through that horrible district.

TAR WEST SUDE OF FORTH AVENUE, from Taylor to Harrison streets, which escaped destruction, is filled with disrepuisable houses most of them now histered by the hoat, and without a whole pare of glass in any window. These mansions of sin are now doubly and trebly filled with fallen women driven from their own dens of infamy.

AS FOR THIRD AVENUE, it was a clear sweep, hardly a stick or a stone remaining from where the fire stated down to Yan Buren street. The buildings were nearly all of wood.

THE ONLY CONSPICUOUS RUINS are those of the First Baptist Church, on Wabash bountiful harvests with which we have ever been favored. The straw is shorter than it is some years, but the grain generally stands thick, and is filling out unusually well. Should no unforeseen calamity occur, the farmers will soon have garners overflowing with the products of the earth, and should good prices prevail, the hard libe very materially mitigated.

Special Correspondence of The Chicago Tribuna.

Farmyar, Ill., July 15.—The drought still continues, increasing each wacceding day in tensity, and everything is so excessively dry that, for fear of fire, we go to bed praying, and, if not burnt out, get up in the morning giving thanks. Have stis nearly dome, but, although the average of cats sown was far more than in any year harcteforre, the crop will be light for the beach, like those of fast young men, become prematurely white. Corn is yet doing very well.

Minwauker, Wis., July 16.—The Schiinel tomorrow morning will publish advices from thry countles of this State, showing the condition of the crops. With reference to the whest-cropy, it appears that there is a belt extending through Green, Rock, and Jeforson Counties where the heads have not filled at all, owing to the drought. The same state of things appear in parts of Juneau, Adams, Jackson, Buffalo, and Pierce. Elsewhere the yield will range from average to considerably above an average. Oats is a fair crop, being short only in a few places. Barley is light, but rye is an average yield. Winter wheat is already harvested, and is generally good. There is a good yield of hay.

Important Judgment Against the Erie Railway Company.

ELMIRA, N. Y., July 16.—A suit at law which involved a large sum has just been decided in this judicial district. It arose from the sale of coal lands made by the late John Arnot, of this city, to the Erie Railway Company about 1865, which were paid for by the bonds of the Boston, Hartford & Erie Railway Company. The executors of Mr. Arnot were obliged to bring suit against the Company for payment of the bonds and interest. It was tried here last February in the Circuit Court, and the Justice reserved his decision, which was rendered on the 14th inst., in favor of the plaintiffs, the sum being a little less than $97,000. A levy was made on the Company's property in this city on Tuesday night, a passenger-train being seized, but it was permitted to proceed when enough to satisfy the judgment was found. Should this decision be affirmed by a higher court, it will sustain the legality of the guarantee made by the Eric Company of $5,000,000 of Boston, Hartford & Eric Bonds and a large amount of accrued interest.

SPRINGFIELD.

THE POLICE COMMISSIONERS AND MARSHAL.

The Police and Fire Commissioners met yeaterday afternoon as usual. The amount of setual business on hand was comparatively imagnificant, but the afternoon was profitably spent in an informal discussion of THE DEFIGURIES OF THE DEPARTMENT.

The first thing discussed was the hook-and-ladder system. This Commissioner Klokke condemned as a cumbersome hook-and-ladder system. This he regarded as preposterous. The ladders were useful in their way, but the hooks were not. The ropes gave way at the least strain, and were uttarly useless in the destruction of buildings. Chains and grappling-irons were immediately necessary, of sufficient strength to pull down any obstacle in the way of the firemen. The men were sufficiently good but their apparatus could be improved.

Commissioner Sheridan suggested the addition of SPRINGFIELD, Ill., July 16, 1874.

The attention of school directors and township treasurers is called to the important fact that certificates of the amounts of special taxes required to be levied in school districts for school purposes must be returned to the County Clerk on or before the second Tussday of August, instead of the second Menday of September, as heretofore, in sompliance with the requirements of the 122d section of the act for the assessment of property and the levy and collection of taxes, as amended by the set approved Feb. 3, 1873 in force July 1, 1873. Boards of Directors should hand their certificates to the Township Treasurer on or before the first Tussday of August, and it will be, the duty of the Treasurer to file the same with the County Clerk on or before the second Tussday of August as aforesaid. This matter is very important, and should receive immediate and careful attention. County Superintendents of Schools are requested to send a copy of this circular to every Township Treasurer in their respective counties without delay, and also to have it, or the substance thereof, published in the county papers as extensively as practicable.

The other Commissioners assented to this proposition. Commissioner Sheridan explained that the Marshal was compelled to send to the suburb of Brighton for powder so use, and that it took nearly three hours to bring it in.

Commissioner Ayars thought the use of the powder should be intrusted to a corps of measkilled in its application to fires. A short time ago experiments had been made with brick and wooden buildings erected for the purpose of testing a system of explosive cartridges composed of giant powder. They were fired with a fuse and could, it was demonstrated, be used with equal advantage inside or outside a building

The third was a tie on eight birds between Postmaster Wade and Frank Buzby, of South Bend, and was divided. The fourth was won by Jacob Strayer, of South Bend. Some double shooting was done with excellent execution outside the entries, the whole furnishing fine sport to a large attendance of people.

Ra held with Mr. Charles H. Case, who represents several of the prominent companies doing business here, and, as it seems to present the aspect of the case in its clearest light, it is here given. The duestions, of course, were asked by the reporter of Tar Thinux, and the replies are substantially as Mr. Case made them. The question first asked was in relation to the competency of Chief Benner, to which the reply was given that he had probably done as well as he could under the circumstances.

"To what circumstances do you allude?"

"To the fact that the Fire Dopartment is in a wretched shape; under the management of a sort of police-court, who have every sort of political purpose to subserve, to the ruin of efficiency and responsibility. Mr. Benner has no power to control his men, and they are appointed and retained not because they are sober, clear-headed, and good workmen, but because they can control a certain number of Irish or German votes. When they commit an offense they are tried by the Commissioners and are condemned or declared innocent, according to how they worked for their superiors in the election."

THEATE THE.

"But in regard to the late fire, was not that well managed?"

"It think not. I saw four engines working on useless work at one time on Clark street. They should have been in front of the fire, and not befind it; and yet I do not blame Benner so much. He should have held more againes. Last March, you will remember, he asked for twentymore engines. He should have them. The engines he has are not powerful enough, and then the hose is bad. We should have them. The engines. He should have them. The engines are too under the order of the difficulties, however; the mains are too unail. It some parts of the winds affort."

that could be pointed out where a fire under such headway might awap the city. We should take the money that we propose to use to build the Court-House, and turn it to the purpose of paying for condemned wooden buildings in the path of danger, and have them torn down. It is a great pity that the fire limits were not extended, and here only last week I heard on the best authority that they were talking of contracting them on the North Side. It would probably have been done if it had not been for the fire."

"You expect the National Board of Underwriters here, I believe. What will they do?"

"I cannot tell. Thay will probably investigate the whole matter of the fire, and conclude on some decided policy."

"I believe they visited Boston. Did they effect any changes there?"

THE SUFFERERS.

THE COUNTY'S SHABE.

The business of extending relief to the suffer ers by the fire was fairly set on foot yesterday, and, between the Belief and Aid Society and the County Agent, all applicants received prompt and satisfactory attention. The number of new applicants at the County Agent's office was not so large as might have been expected, showing that the burnt-out people have generaly found shelter and food up to this time. This rrangement, however, will be but temporary in majority of cases, and it is anticipated that the oks will show a large increase by the end of the week. Yesterday the County Agent received thirty new applications for relief. He issued but five orders for transportation, showing that very few are leaving the city. Order No. 4, passed by the Board of County Commissioners April 20,—providing that "no person who is able-bodied, and physically and mentally able to sain a living, shall be supported by or receive aid from the county; and that alms from the county shall be confined to aged in digent persons, indigent widows and orphans, old, decrepid persons and cripples, and such work for a living,"-has been modified so far as the head of "such extreme cases as may be specially ordered by the Board, or by a majority specially ordered by the Board, or by a majority of the Committee on Public Charities." The entire Committee has already given the County Agent the necessary authority, so that he is at liberty to issue supplies to persons who are vouched for by any respectable and well-known citizeu. It is not necessary to procure an order from any county or town official, though na ill cases where the applicant brings no certificate that he or she was burnt out and is needy, the County Agent follows his usual plan,—sends a visitor to inquire into the case. This need work no hardship or delay, as there should be no difficulty in obtaining the requisite indorsement in deserving cases.

THE RELIEF AND AD SOCIETY.

The Board of Directors of the Chicago Rellef and Aid Society held a meeting yesterday morn-ing at 9 o'clock, at the office of the Society, cor-ner of LaSaile and Randolph streets. The fol-lowing gentlemen were present: H. W. King, Mr. Mixer, B. Caulfield, Mr. Harvey, Dr. H. A. Johnson, Julius Rogenthal, McGregor Adams;

Mr. Mixer, B. Casinial, Mr. Harvey, Dr. H. A.
Johnson, Julius Rosenthal, McGregor Adams; and Col. C. G. Hammond, Mayor Colvin, Supt. C. G. Trusdell, and County Commissioner John Jones were also present.

THE OBJECT OF THE MEETING was to adopt rules and regulations which were in force during the fire Tuesday. After a short discussion the rules and regulations which were in force during the great conflagration in October, 1871, were again adopted. The Mayor was informed that the means of the Society were sufficient for all present demands, and that no outside relief was necessary, whereupon the Mayor stated that on the strength of this statement he would refuse all offers from outside for assistance. Commissioner John Jones was appointed a committee to examine into the cases of need of colored people, and recommend them to the Society if assistance is found necessary.

THE HERREW RELIEF ASSOCIATION has rented rooms at No. 169 East Randolph street, and Israelites needing help have first to apply to them for a recommendation to the Relief and Aid Society.

It was also decided at the meeting that the Society shall disburse money only, and that other supplies should be furnished by the County Agent. The rooms of the Society were visited during the day by a majority of whom were colored folks and Polish Israelites. Each case was diligently inquired into, and about $2,000 were distributed during the day. All the railroad companies except the Pittsburg & Fort Wayne and the Chicago & Northwestern have promised to issue free tickets to persons who were burned out at this fire and are recommended by the Society. The officers of the Uhicago & Northwestern have not yet been called upon, and the General Passenger Agent of the Pittsburg & Fort Wayne was out of two when the Committee called at his office. About twenty-five persons, most of whom were women and children, received free tickets y persons, the Society. THE MANAGEMENT OF THE FIRE.

There have been no end of comments on the manuer in which the members of the Fire Department acquitted themselves on the occasion of the fire,—whether or not all that could be reasonably expected was done to cope with the destroying element and check its progress. There are not a few who are disposed to condemn unequivocally the Fire Marshal and his force for falling to improve valuable opportunities, and for the lack of order and discipline which was observed. Others, again, find no fault with the Fire Department, but attribute the vast destruction to a condition of wind, weather, and circumstances, which rendered impossible any effective fight against the fire. A TRIBUNE reporter yesterday ran across at present Supervisor of South Chicago, but formerly First Assistant Fire Marshal, and engaged in conversation with him. Supervisor Shank had no idea that he was being interviewed, and it may, therefore, be presumed that he expressed his honest convictions. The talk was something to this effect:

Reporter—Mr. Shank, I suppose you saw more or less of Tuesday's fire?

Mr. Shank—I saw a good deal of it. My residence on Third arenne was burned out, and, as soon as I had got everything moved, I went body seemed to be working on me own mook, such there was nobody atound to give orders at places where a great deal of good could have been done.

R.—Then you don't consider Mat Benner a success as Chief Fire Marsha!?

Mr. S.—I didn't say that. Mat is a good man, and a good fireman, though he is no particular friend of mine. He did all he could to get me out of the Department. I don't blame him so much as the officers under him. He couldn't be at every place at once, and had to trust to his assistants. Some of them went back on him. I will not give any names, but I saw men who did not seem take any interest in what they were about. Several times I came across companies who were a county of them and the series of them and the series of them. I offered some suggestions, but they told me to go to hell. One of them raised a pipe, and threatened to hit me for interfering, but was prevented by Capt. Buckley, who declared he would arrest him if he struck me. I wanted to do all I could, and I couldn't keep still when I saw things going wrong, and men putting water where it did no earthly good, while they might have worked to advantage somewhere else. When I told them they were wasting water and time, they said they were ordered to easy there, and stay there they should till they got different orders. No one seemed willing to move first unless ordered to do it. Even the Assistant Marshale, some of them, wouldn't change the location of engines until they had orders from the Chief.

R.—Where, in your Judgment, were the most damaging mistakes made?

Mr. S.-They were made everywhere. The men did not go far engugh ahead of the fire. At Harrison street, between Wabsah avenue and State street, they ought to have wet down those wooden buildings before the fire got to them. This would have reduced the heat, and the Post-Office could have been saved, and the fire stopped there. Instead of that, they wated till the fire got right there, and then they should have wet down the briek buildings seroes the way. They stood there until th

R.—Then you think, on the whole, it was a R.—Then you think, on the whole, it was a badly managed fire?

Mr. S.—I don't think anything about it; I know it was badly managed. It ought to have been stopped at Folk street; if not there, at Harrison street, and surely at Congress street. I do not bisme Benner so much as I do the officers and men under him.

THE WATER-SUPPLY.

Many ascribed the spread of the fire on Tuesday night, to the lack of sufficient water to supply the engines under Chief-Marshal Benner's control. This theory has good grounds for support.

ner's control. This theory has good grounds for support.

It may not be generally known, but it is a fact, that the large feeders which run up La Salle, Wabash avenue, State, and other thoroughfares, are not tapped by the hydrants, and the water drawn for the supply of the engines was taken in almost every instance from 4-inch pipes, which, on the authority of Mr. Chesbrough, are exhausted by one engine.

The following table gives the size of the pipes on the streets burned over by the fire. on the streets burned over by the fire

Wabash avenue, 24-inch pipe.
State street, 4-inch pipe.
Third avenue, 4-inch pipe.
Fourth avenue, 4-inch pipe.

Twelfth street, 12-inch pipe.
It will be seen that in almost every instance they are entirely too small to meet such as emergency as came upon us. The appropriation for the extension of water-pipes for the current year is $300,000, and for the new engine and works, $200,000. Mr. Chesbrough estimates that $1,000,000 should be expended on extending water-mains and pipes as soon as possible.

How the fire was stopped.

There were two brick walls in the path of the fire last Tuesday evening that probably did more to arrest the conflagration than the entire efforts of the Fire Department. Even Fire-Marshall Benner would be willing to admit that they were worth half-a-dozen engines to him, and that, without their interposition, the fire might have broken away from him again. These two walls stand in the block between Jackson and Van Buren streets and Wabash avenue and State street, and form the northern sides of the furniture warehouses of C. C. Horton & Co., on State street, and Sampson, Gilbert & Co., on Wabash avenue. They stand almost back to back, and, at the most critical moment of the fire, presented a sheer incombustible barrier to the flames. water-mains and pipes as soon as possible.

When the St. James Hotel and the buildings around it were making the most furious and danaround it were making the most furious and dangerous blaze of the evening, every one of the hundred thousand spectators knew that the enpreme moment had come. If the rest of the block succumbed, the Matteson House, the Gardner House, the Exposition Building, and mobedy knows how much more of the business centre, were doomed. The flames swept themselves again and again upon these walls. They could not pass them. Through a bursted iron shutter in the rear of Sampson, Gilbert & Co., a store the fire gained an entrance, but this was a mere eddy, and was easily controlled. Those two walls stopped the fire, as every one can testify who watched the contest, or will genow and look over the ground. There is a whole gospel of instruction in this fact. One of its most important lessons is that, if workingmen and other people of moderate means would be sensible and live in well-built, brick apartment-houses, their homes and the whole city would be much safer than under the present plan of crowding little wooden tinder-boxes for miles around our banks, churches, warehouses, hotels, elevators, stores, and everything that makes up the most valuable part of the town.

FUTURE SOUTH SIDE FIRES.

The contemplative resident of Chicago, or the curious visitor thereto, can learn an instructive lesson in the fine art of con-flagration, in which this city is a profi-cient, by making a tour of that portion of the South Side between Taylor and Twenty-second streets, and between Wabash avenue and the South Branch of the river, which yet remains to be burned. To any person who studies the ground, the wonder will be, not that the Chey-enne district and some of the fine avenues got scorohed, but that has so long escaped destruction. The houses are almost without exception, the very worst class of fire-traps, especially on South Clark street, Third and Fourth avenues, and State street. There is an occasional brick building, just sufficient to throw into bolder relief the miserable style of archi-tecture—fit only for the backwoods—which pre-vails. Between South Clark street and the river, from the line of Harrison street, there is wooden coal-sheds, lumber, freight-cars, and tinder-box "offices" frightful to contemplate. Should a fire, with a strong wind, start in that region during the dry season, it would be a task of great magnitude to prevent another disaster. The city would be again depleted to the tune of several millions worth of property, and the business section would be most cruelly jeopardized. The section
ANY PORTION OF THE SOUTH DIVISION

ERTWEEN STATE AND CLARK STREETS, bounded as already stated, is not much better. A wooden distillery is in full blast within 40 rods of where the late fire started, and all the citizens around say that it is the cradle of another fire.

The people who inhabit this terrible region are, speaking generally, of the very lowest and poorest classes of society. They are Bohsmians, Scandinavians, Itish, German, and Ethiopians, nearly all of them steeped to the lips in poverty, and hardly able to improve their condition. Of course the unfortunate people cannot help being poor, but the existence of their inflammable abodes is a constant mensee to the city, and, in justice it must be added, the coal offices,

SHEDS, AND LUMBER-YARDS

are not a whit less dangerous, and should receive the special attention of the city authorities for thwith. So long as this material for speedy destruction exists, there can be no feeling of security in this community. Chicago may pile up palace after palace, but the shanties and lumber-yards are ever ready to throw their sinister shadow upon them, robing them in the garments of ashes and death. Before our great Rebellion it used to be asked whether it would not be better for our Government, following the example of the British, to buy up the slaves rather than have the problem submitted to the exhipment of the world? To-day it is a question with us whether it would not be much safer and cheaper, in some manner, to

before our City Government to-day is not a question of political power, but of architectural reform. Every department of the city should at once be devoted to rendering the property which yet remains tolerably secure. The Board of Health, which is supposed to look at sanitary arrangements and to prevent the accumulation of garbage, shavings, etc., in the alley-wave, and between houses, has shamefully neglected its duty,—either from want of brains or lack of resources.

sources.

THE ALLET-WATS AND SPACES
in the Cheyenne region are filled with the inflammable filth of a dozen years' aggregation, and not a finger is moved to remedy the evil.

Even in the tusiness district shanties have been built since the passage of the fire ordinance, and the collection of shavings, saw-dust, and pieces of timber is simply execuable. On the west side of South Clark street, between Monroe and Adams streets, there is enough material for which would imperit the whole neighborhood.

TRYING TO RUN UP SHANTIES.

The Beard of Public Works were very much bothered yesterday by applications for permission to erect wooden sheds upon the burnt district. Many of the applicants had evidently suffered severely by the fire, and it was with much sion to erect wooden sheds upon the burnt district. Many of the applicants had evidently suffered severely by the fire, and it was with much regret and reluctance that the Board were compelled to deny the permission. Among the most strenuous of the claimants was a Mrs. Tierney, who, before the fire, kept a salcon on the southeast corner of Congress and State streets. She had erected a small frame shed, in which she had resumed her trade in lager beer, and more exhilirating liquids. In her efforts she was atoutly backed up by Capt. Buckley, who quoted the law as he had read it to Capt. Prindiville. This gentleman held that the law which allowed the construction of wooden out-buildings distinctly stated that they could not be erected save on lots where residences had already been built. He sympathized with the applicants, but stated that if life itself depended upon the erection of the shanties he would oppose it. Mr. Prindiville's idea and intention were good, but it is doubtful if his law was of equal quality, as the existence of a residence to allow of the erection of an out-house is open to very grave question. At least so the law Department decided when they were referred to upon the subject. There can be no doubt that the presence of such a clause would materially assist in hindering the construction of tinder boxes on the sits of the recent fire.

Another question which bothered the Board vesterday was whether the city had the power to another boxes on the site of the recent fire.

Another question which bothered the Board vesterday was whether the sity had the power to cause the demolition or removal from the fire-limits of sith wooden structures as had been allowed to be erected after the fire of 1871. Such of these as were erected on public property were removed as soon as their necessity departed, but far too many of them still remain.

There will be brought to bear against the comparted, but far too many of them still remain. There will be brought to bear against the common sense, which would cause their removal by the Council, a very strong pressure, but, if the Alderind mean business, they will overcome it. The Board of Public Works have asked of the Law Department whether they have the power to remove such buildings, and if the answer is in the affirmative they will proceed to work in a vigorous manuar.

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE PREVEN-TION OF "CONFLAGRATIONS."
To the Editor of The Chicago Tribune:
Sir: In these days, when small fires bave gone out of fashion, and "conflagrations" are fre-quent, it becomes a serious question whether our system of extinguishing fires is not radically

We are accustomed to blame the Fire-Department when great loss occurs; but it is by no means certain that the fault generally rests with them. Everybody knows that great fires pro-ceed from small beginnings. It would seem, therefore, that the system which would enable the Fire-Department or other citizens to apply water to a fire most speedily after its discovery. would be most likely to prevent these great disasters. The time lost in getting the Department to a fire is the fatal defect. No matter how vigilant or how expert our firemen may be, it is manifest that even five minutes' delay, under circumstances such as existed on the 9th of October, 1871, and yesterday, is sufficient to imperil the whole city.

It has been thoroughly demonstrated that, in It has been thoroughly demonstrated that, in towns where the "Holly" plan has been adopt-ed, no great fires occur. It there any difficulty in adopting it in large cities? Why may not Chicago be divided into districts, and a Holly works, or something similar, be established in each? Cannot our present water-works be util-ized for extinguishing fires,—at least for a part ized for extinguishing fires,—at least for a part of the city?

It is believed that the expenditure of $1,000,000 in the construction of such works would protect the city better than fifty engines, which must be transported to the fire before they are available. The great desideratum is to have the power always and everywhere present, to apply water at the outset. This cannot be attained under the present system.

A few of the present engines might perhaps be prolitably retained for use in remote districts, and on occasions where they could be advantageously posted. The men should be on duty within such districts as each man could properly patrol, ready to give telegraphic notice of fires, to have in charge the depot of hose in his district, and to operate it immediately when necessary. The regular police might be instructed in such duties, so as to be efficient in aid of the Fire-Department at the incipiency of fires. Four depots of hose, and two firemen on duty at all hours, would, with the police, I think, give good protection to sixteen blocks, by locating the hose-depots at the proper points in such a district, and giving each of the two men on duty eight blocks to patrol during the night, thus:

From the above diagram it will be seen that the patrolman would at no time be more than two blocks distant from a hose-depot, which are represented by the stars; and, upon discovering a fire, or hearing an alarm within his beat, could act very promptly. Of course, hydrants or fire-pings would be placed at every corner, so arranged as to receive a dozen lines of hose, and discharging as many streams, if necessary. Possibly two firemen might be thought insufficient for so large a territory; but, with the aid of others who would be in adjoining districts, and the citizens residing in the vicinity, it is believed that, in most cases, fires could be extinguished before, under the present system, one steamer could be brought to the spot.

These suggestions as to the detailed working of such a system are necessarily very imperfect and incomplete, even if unobjectionable; but it was not my purpose to do more in this communication than to call attention to the necessity and practicability of having a steam fire-engine with capacity to throw many streams of water always at every man's door; and that, too, at a much less expense than the present system, which never can be made to supply this want.

Chicago, July 15, 1874.

SUGGESTIONS.

SUGGESTIONS. MORE WATER WANTED.

To the Editor of The Chicago Tribune:
Sir: Fire-engines are not our greatest want to prevent these large fires. We have now, excepting those disabled last night, twenty-five cepting those disabled last night, twenty-five fire-engines, which is enough for the wants of this city until its area becomes much further ex-tended. Our greatest want is the still further improvement of our water system by the substi-tution of large mains where there are small ones, and the extension of the system to the most remote built portions of the city. The Board of Public Works did well in putting in so many new and double plugs; but there should be no stopping of this work until every part of the city is fully protected. Our water-works are certainly much more efficient now than ever before. There was an actual pressure on the pipes at the street level on Washington street, Tuesday night, when the fire-engines were working to their utmost capacity, of over twenty pounds per square inch, sufficient to rain a column of water about 50 feet, and this was at a time when the Fire Department was drawing from 10,000 to 12,000 gallons from the mains per minute.

Experience has shown that the extinguishing tractice stream of water from 16 capacity.

the Fire Department was drawing from 10,000 to 12,000 gallons from the mains per minute.

Experience has shown that the extinguishing capacity of a stream of water from a fire-engine increases in an inverse ratio with the square of the length of hose. Thus, a stream through three sections of hose (150 feet) is four times as reliable as if the same water passed through six sections (300 feet). This may seem too great a difference, but taking into account the increased time in getting to work, liability of bursting, and lost time in replacing burst section, facility in handling, diminished friction of water, and all the various mishaps that are likely to occur, especially when the nece has to be raised to a high point, and this is found to be a correct rule to work from. The importance of having large mains and many fire-plugs is thus made obvious. The present aim of the City Engineer which, by enlarging mains and getting the ashikand avenue works in operation, should soon be accomplished, is to give an average water pressure throughout the city at all seasons of the year of fifty pounds to the squarg inch at the lake level. This will insure a column of water conducted in pipes of over one hundred feet high in almost any part of the city, and in such a neighborhood as that where this fire originated would make a plug stream amply strong to extinguish the fire, and, with mains sufficiently large to keep up the head of water, would be fully as efficient at the start of a fire, when most needed, as if played through an engine, principally for the reason that they can be handled with more celerity. The time consumed in connecting an engine, though but little is saved when that pressure, 50 pounds per inch, is attained and made reliable at all points, some more hose companies, will be found a great acquisition to the Department. It is certain that we can never have too minch hose recled ready for immediate use.

The shortness of the water-supply was, in all probability, owing to the provident zeal of ladies on the West Side, who feared the Water-Works might go. Many a husband who came home at 3:15 a. m. and fell into three tubs of water in the kitchen, overturning in his fall a board on the sink, whereon had been placed all the crockery and tinware in the house that could hold the precious element, had reason to bless the thought-fulness of his wife. In our issue of July 15 was given the list of buildings destroyed. Nos. 282, 284, and 286 Wabash avenue, occupied by Our Pireside Friend, New Covenant, Northwestern Lumberman, and N. T. Smith. The building occupied by them was saved, being damaged but slightly, and they are transacting business as usual. Postmaster McArthur is engaged with a large force of men in preparing Honore Block for the Post-Office. The basement, first, accound, and part of the third floors of the north half of the building will be occupied, and, owing to the unfinished condition of the interior, the work of preparation is greatly assisted, as there are few partition walls to be torn down. The mailing department will be in the basement; the general delivery, money order, and registry departments on the direction, with three entrances from the street; the Postmaster and assistants and the carriers' department on the second floor, and the railway mails arvice on the third floor.

The rent has not yet been fixed, though $25,000 has been named. If this is thought too high, Mr. Honore will leave it to arbitration. The Government agent will arrive to-day and arrange the matter. The old church building was rented at $23,000 a year for three years, the lease to continue until the completion of the new Post-Office and Custom-House building. In the old building the Government lost about $35,000 in revairs, fixtures, additions, etc. At the time the old church was selected it was the nearest building to the centre of business that could be procured. The Postmaster has been more fortunate this time, and has chosen a most excellent location.

EXTENDING THE FIRE LIMITS:

A petition is actively circulating for signatures calling on the Mayor and Common Council to make the fire limits coextensive with the city limits, as urged nearly three years ago. Signatures are being placed upon it by the thousand, and it is sincerely to be hoped that by the time it resches the Common Council at will have one hundred thousand or more names upon it. Copies of it will be found at all the banks, insurance offices, newspaper offices, and leading stores in the city. Such a mass of evidence of the feeling of the citizens should be brought up before the Council that no Alderman will dare to take the responsibility of rejecting the first vigorous measure for the safety of the city. Let every man in the city sign it, if possible, who wishes to sleep securely in any part of the city. Material and labor are cheap shough now to give us substantial buildings.

To the Editor of The Chicago Tribune:
Sta: I venture to submit the following facts to the consideration of your readers as interesting to those among them who pay heavy losses for the protection of their lives and property: A lady who is in business on Wabash avenue, in the vicinity of the fire, warned by the experience she had acquired in the previous great fire, and trusting little to the protection she might expect from her insurance company, made haste to move her stock and furniture to a places, situated between a level plain on the one side and a wilderness of waters on the other. Chicago to-day exists by the anferance of wind and fire. What a healthy feeling place of safety. She succeeded in taking one or two loads to the West Side, having previously packed up the remainder in the storevously packed up the remainder of the store, the vault broken open, and its contents emptied, the trunk containing the clothing of her deceased husband smashed to pieces, the gas-fixtures wrenched off, and everything that she posseased of any value carried off. This was done in the presence of two or three gentiemen, neighbors of hers, who exerted themselves to their utmost, but in vain, to save her property, and who can attest to the truth of this statement. As usual, not a policeman was to be found, although in addition to the regular force, who, it is to be supposed, were attending to their days free to had had the good fortune to have be If the lady I refer to had had the good fortune to have been burned out, she would probably have obtained her insurance; as it is now, no one is responsible, not even the City Government which we pay so extravagantly and so uselessly to look after our property. News of that city the following account of themsulves while here:
Tuesday night the steamers left here at 10:06 and arrived in Chicago at about 1 o'clock; the Chief Marshal sent teams to take both engines to No. 1's house, sorner of Market and Adams streets. Soon after No.
5 was ordered to duty on Wabash avenue, near Van Buren street, to relieve No. 14's men, who were sent home to get recruited. No. 5 worked until about 6 o'clock, when they were relieved and returned to No.
1's house. No 5 remained at 1's house without being ordered to duty. After No. 5's return, Chief Marshal
C. R. Handerbeck cordially invited all the Milwankes boys to a splendid breakfast at the Grand Pacific Hotel, which they partook jof with as good a will as they would have worked had their services been longer needed.
Our boys were justily cheered by the populace of the sections through which they passed, and the Chicago people seemed truly gratified for Milwaukee's prompt response to her call for sid. The fremen, too, took the boys by the hand, and while hoping that Milwaukee might never be forced to need the same favor, they piedged themselves to natihar sleep or eat till the call was answered. All these things come from bighearted men—men who are used to rough work in times of danger, and men who can thoroughly appreciate deserved good treatment. After breakfast, the Milwaukea boys were ordered by Assistant-Chief Phillp Locher to get ready for home, where they arrived at half-past a yesterday afternoon, and had their apparatus housed ready for ation again.

The boys say the burned district looks pretty rough, but the general expression is, "Thank God it's no worse!"

The Chicago Department was completely used up, and the firemen were rejoiced to see help come to them, even though the danger was really over.

ALEKET PATCH, recently appointed Fire Warden, took up his position at the counce of Eldridge court and Wabash avenue, and by preventing the destruction of the frame buildings at that point, kept the fire from crossing eassward and cleaning out Michigan avenue in that vicinity. His indefatigable labors met with most gratifying success. Members of engines Nos. 16 and 24 also did good service at this point.

No LABORERS WANTED.

To the Editor of The Chicago Tribune:

Stn: A very natural result of so great a fire will be an influx of labor to the city, to rebuild its waste places. Ought not it be stated from some reliable source that no laborers or mechanics from abroad will be required? that the thousands of men in the city, long out of employment will be quite sufficient for any demand which may have been created by the recent fire?

From the St. Louis Democrat.

The news of Chicago's second disastrons visitation by firs, which resched here by Associated Press and was made known between 7 and 5 o'clock last evening, created a profound sensation.

"Chicago is being again destroyed" went from lip to lip, and expressions of sincere regret went up from every heart, Reports were carried almost with the speed of lightning, and in the hotels and salcons formed the chief topic of conversation. The various newsysper offices were sought for the latest news, which came in rather unsatisfactory shape, and therefore was dispensed in like manner. Even to distant portions of the city the ill-tidings spread, and citizens jumped into vehicles and came down-town to learn the news.

This evidence had not been reaght, hence they claimed the right of this cont to question the belief of the witness as to be batter's sanity. Mr. Swett replied briefly, side would need time to decide the question, its view of all its bearings. It was a new question. He could indicate, howers, his opinion. The necessity of the soundness of mind on the part of the testion was required by the statute. The question before the Court, assuming that the belief of asity had been stated by the witness, was, Can that belief be questioned? The belief, stated without qualification, bound the Court as to the soundness of mind. Yet the Court had the right to inquire as to the basis of that belief. He thought, then, it was competent for the soundness of mind. Yet the Court had the pass of his belief of the testator's soundness of mind. As to whether the Court ought to permit the answer to this question. he would not fully dispose of it that night. He had some doubt of it, but would examine the authorities more fully, and have something more to say the next morning upon the subject.

At 4:30 celock the Court adjourned until this morning at 10 o'clock. It is likely the case will sonting at 10 o'clock. It is likely the case will sonting at 10 o'clock. JUDGE WALLACE

IRA BROWN.

The trial of Mr. Ira Brown, on charges pre-ferred against him by members of the Ada Breet Church, was taken up again last evening at the church, on Ada street, between Fulton and Lake streets. The proceedings were opened with prayer by the President, the Rev. Mr. Fel-Carter, a member of the jury, was absent, but at the consent of all parties the tes-imony was proceeded with.

THE REV. MR. STROBEIDGE,

There was not much brotherly feeling be-down-stairs, saying that all the money in the house was in a little desk in a lower room, and asking them not the rest. Ar. Structured, was said on the stand. He testified with regard to the finishing of the church, and the connection of its Brown therewith. The witness said it was deamined to hire men, and pay them two-thirds are estate and the balance in cash. Mr. Jennings, who was Treasurer of the Society at the line, did not like the plan, and resigned. Witness and defendant then talked the matter over, and its Brown agreed to carry the church to delication-day on the plan proposed. Contributions were taken up to pay the workness, and the deficiency was supplied by Mr. Brown. The latter was willing, in case the church did not succeed by dedication day, to raise the entire amount, and advance as much more as might be necessary, and wait five years for he return. Mr. Brown bought the lumber. The church could not get it without his indorsement. It was understood that Mr. Jennings waste give financial help, he being then on the Building Committee. Mr. Brown took no active part in building the church until after he was elected Trustee. He only expected to carry his proportion of the debt, which was at least a quarter of the whole amount. Mr. Brown bote all the burdens when others failed. It was winness belief that the charch could not have been furnished without the assistance of Mr. Brown. The subscriptions on dedication day amounted to about $17,000, and were considered successful. The builk of the amount was raised in the church,—some $10,000,—and of that sum Mr. Brown subscribed $2,500. His original subscription was $1,000, but he increased in a dedication day. former pastor of the Ada Street Church, was contained trinkets. Happily their contents were on the bureau, which they probably imagined contained trinkets. Happily their contents were valueless.

The four men were next heard of a few minutes before 4 o'clock, when they went to the grocery store of Philip Schuler, on Western avenue, near Polk street. Schuler heard a noise at that hour, and, thinking it might be an early enstomer, went down to attend to him. He made no noise in descending the stairs, and stood within 6 feet of the intruders before either party was aware of the other's presence. He found that they were forcing up the window of the grocery store, which was fasten by a nail. As soon as the peaceful quarteste observed Mr. Schuler, they scampered off without delay, leaving behind them but this clew: One of them had a white rag of some kind tied round the lower part of his face, and Mr. Schuler thinks he can identify him as a fellow living on Ogden avenue, whose face had been scorched on the Fourth of July. The only loss was the breaking of some tumblers when the window fell down.

From Schuler's place they went to the house of S. Gray, who lives on Polk street, between Western and Campbell avenues. One of them entered the house, and the noise he made in going up the creaking stairs attacted the attention of the occupant. Mr. Gray, supposing it was his son, called out to him. The intruder muttered, "It's all right," at a venture, hoping to allay Mr. Gray's suspicions. But the tone of voice would not pass muster. The vagabond's utterances betrayed him, and Mr. Gray jumped out of bed. The three companions stood at the door of the house, with cocked revolvers, waiting for a bit of sport. But the sudden appearance of their leader demonsilized them, and they broke into a run and fled eastward on Polk street. The last seen of them was by a gentleman who was going home at the time.

At the coughtsion of Mr. Strobridge's testimal, the Court adjourned until this evening.

It is about time that a little more police attention was devoted to this part of the cit. Up to a comparatively recent period the territory west of Leavitt was remarkably free from violence. But a few months ago a disseputable "pretty-waiter-girl" saloom was started at the corner of Western avenue and Lake street, which has become the constant place of resort of a gang of roughs, thieves, and burglars, whose fights the police are constantly called in to stop. These vicious characters are becoming a terror to a once peaceful neighborhood, who are disturbed by a drunken mob in the early night and by burglars in the early morning. The police officers, instead of going on their beats, prefer to sit on barrels at the corner of Madison street and Western avenue, and the result is, as in Mr. Hall's case, that a noise heard for blocks did not attract the attention of a solitary policeman.

Great hopes were entertained by the friends of Mr. Bock that he would have made a strong fight for the championship, but during the tournament he played while sufferining from an attack of fever, and his resigning was a matter of regret both to himself and his opponents. PRESENTING THE PRIZES.

The Congress then on motion adjourned, and Mr. Currau. President of the Chicago Chess Ciub, took the chair, in order to present to the successful competitors the prizes which they had won. These consisted of the first prize of $225 to Capt. Mackenzie, and the second of $180 to Mr. Hosmer, the third prize of $75 having been given previously to Mr. Judd in order to enable him to reach home by an early train.

In making the presentations, Mr. Curran alluded in fitting terms to the pleasant nature of the tournament, and its success as an event in the chess world of America. He regretted that the prizes were not larger, but stated that the small number of competitors and the large sum which had to be reserved for the publication of the book of the tournament left no alternative but to limit the prizes to the arounts named. The recipients of the prizes pocketed their envelopes with many modest blushes, and, after one or two speeches, the meeting adjourned.

ENTERPRISING BURGLARS.

The house of Mr. Ernest Hall, No. 884 Fulton street, near Oakley, was entered by burglars yesterdey morning. Four persons with their faces hidden by white masks, out through the shutters of one of the windows, got into the front room, and, after unlocking the front door in order to secure safe and rapid egrees, went up-stairs to the room occupied by Mrs. Hall and a young child, presented their revolvers at her ead and wanted money. She tried to get them in an adjoining room, sleeping heavily.—he having been up late at the Tuesday night fire,—indistinctly heard his wife mention the baby, and, fancying that the child was ill, got out of bed and went to the door. As he opened it, these men ran down-stairs. Mr. Hall turned back into his room, seized a navy revolver, and fired at them from the head of the stairs. They went out of the front door, ran across the street, through a vacant lot, over to Walnut street, and disappeared.

be authorized to confer with the proprietors of Standard Hall, and with the Methodist Church society, with reference to securing these places for the morning and evening services of the church for the present. A regular monthly meeting was announced for a week from Friday night, at the rooms somer of Indians avenue and Thirtieth street. It is probable that the Committee will carry out the wishes of the majority present, the members of which expressed themselves decidedly in favor of holding the morning services in Standard Hall, and the evening services with the Wabash Avenue Methodist Church. Is has not yet been decided whist arrangements will be made for the Sunday-school and Rible-classes, but they will probably be held, for the present, in the Wabash Avenue Church, if time for them can be found without putting to inconvenience the Methodist society. The First Baptists fully appreciate the invitation extended to them, not only by the Methodists, but by several other churches, and especially the offer of the Michigan Avenue Baptist Church, to worship with them until permanent quarters can be found.

Church, to worship with them until permanent quarters can be found.

At the meeting the Rev. Mr. De Baptiste, of the burned-out Olivet (colored) Church, spoke concerning the heavy loss they had sustained. It was greater than that by the fire of October, 1871. Not only was their house of worship gone, but most of the members were also burned out, and many of them quite destinite. Their house of worship was worth $30,000, but was insured for $12,000. Only $10,000 of the insurance could probably be collected, so that the real loss would be $20,000. There was also a $2,000 mortgage on the house.

Dr. Everts said the Olivet brethren were entitled to their sympathy and aid. He thought the property of the First Church, known as the "Shields Mission," on Butterfield and Twentieth streets, should be donated to the Olivet Church, if they wanted it.

The weekly prayer and conference meeting of the First Church will be held this evening, at a quarter before 8 olock, in the lecture-room of the Wabash Avenne M. E. Church, corner of Fourteenth street.

or five of Fuller's hangers-en rushed into the room, and began an indiscriminate attack on the complainant. Williams, seeing that they were too many for him, backed against the wall, and, with his weapon of defense,—the bootjack,—valiantly fought a retreat from the presence of the confidence-operators, step by step, until he reached the sidewalk, when he immediately called on Haines and swore out the warrant. During the trial, a gentleman by the name of La Motte was sworn as a witness to impeach the testified that he had been swindled by this fellow out of about $650. It seems that he was employed in the office of the swindler at a salary of $125 per month. Fuller knowing that he had money, soon got possession of it by giving him a worthless trust-deed on Washington Heights property. It seems that this nafarious business of Fuller's is shared in by a scapegrace named Osborne. When a swindle is perpetrated, and the arrest of the principal is imminent, he leaves the city, and then Osborne's services are in demand. He calls on the swindled parties, and they, not knowing that he is interested, sell out their securities to him at about 25 cents on the dollar, and sign papers agreeing not to prosecute. This arrangement being completed, Fuller returns to the city, and is ready for his next victims. La Motte was one of the latest victims, but, on discovering the relation that Osborne bore to Fuller, he changed his mind in regard to the courset not to prosecute or otherwise in jure him, and vesterday, in his evidence, he made things look blue for the defendant. The case, which was on trial, was heard by twelve jurymen, who, after being out about one hour, blue for the defendant. The case, which was on trial, was heard by twelve jurymen, who, after being out about one hour, came into court, and stood eleven for conviction and one for acquittel. That one was a beardless youth, who, as he swore he was 21 years of age, was allowed to sit upon the jury. They were then discharged, and the case by agreement was submitted to the Court, who decided there was not sufficient testimony to make out an assault beyond a reason-timoty to make out an assault beyond as a reason-timoty to make out an assault beyond a reason-timoty to make out an assault beyond the case to the timoty to the timoty to the timoty to the timoty timoty to the timoty tim Court, who decided there was not sufficient tes-timony to make out an assault beyond a reason-able doubt, and thereupon dismissed the case, and Timothy W. Mr. Fuller, in conversa-tion in the presence of the reporter, admitted that his business was of the confidence nature, but that he was one of the most charitable men in the

that he was one of the most charitable men in the community. At the time of the great panic last fall, though he only had $200, which he had made from a "sucker," still he supplied 14 tons of coal to several destitute families, and he would be pleased to see others with millions show a similar record. He also boasted that he had been twice around the globe, had usited Asia, Africa, and South America, and had never yet been "licked" except when in the service of the Confederate army during the Rebellion, and that was at the first battle of Manassas Junction, and once before, when in the navy, he was flogged across a gun. His nose had been broken by a blow from a revolver, after the "thing had flashed in the pan," and he, in innumerable rows, always got away with his man. He now carries four bullets in his person, the result of the affrays, therefore he thinks it would be a difficult feat for Williams, or any other man, to get the best of him in a row. From this statement of Fuller's, it would be prudent for those who may have accounts or bills on the beilligerent swindlertie collect at "the cannon's mouth." have accounts or bills on the beilligerent swin-dler to collect at "the cannon's mouth."

Mr. Joseph K. C. Forrest, the City Clerk, is among the sufferers by the great condagration of Tuesday last. Mr. Forrest lived at No. 20 Congress street, and his residence with entire contents were consumed, involving a loss of about $40,000, which was insured for $13,000, leaving a net loss of $22,000, which is pretty heavy on that gentleman. In his residence there was a large vault, in which is stored his library, valued at $8,000. It is possible, when the ruins are cleared away, that his books will be found in good condition.

Capt. Prindiville complains that, even when the Board is engaged with its present pressure of affairs, private parties, will come to him have such disputes settled as arise from the ownership of neighboring property, etc. One of the most aggravating cases of this kind occurred yesterday, when the prominent residents on Twenty-sixth street laid their complaints at his feet. It appeared that one of them had declined, some time ago, to contribute to the common fund for streetwatering. The lack of his subscription was made up by the rest of the residents, and his front was duly watered with the rest. The gentlesnib was fully appreciated, and the irate householder forbade the water-cart to sprinkle the half of the road in front of his residence. To this the neighbors took exception, as thay held that the dust which arose from the unsprinkled spot neutralized all the cooling effects of the water-cart's work elsewhere. One of the neighbors and the recalcitrant resident argued the case before Mr. Prindiville. The latter urged that his wife was in a very delicate sta health, and that the damp arising from the sprinkling would kill her in a week if it were persisted in, while the other urged that dust had so titulatory an effect upon his wife's nasal organ that she was perpetually sneezing. With such forcible arguments on each side it is not to be wondered at that the Captain took the matter under advisement.

There were a great many applications for relief at the Mayor's office yesterday, but not nearly so many as was expected. The majority of the relief-seekers were Israelites and negroes, most of whom were more anxious for a second-class licket out of town than for any other kind of assistance.

Mr. D. Barnard read the new State law concerning amusements and noise on the Sabbath, and asked that the Board enforce the law, especially in the vicinity of his dwelling. Laid over for consideration for one week.

The Board instructed Mr. Bartee to call on the proprietor of Hemrich's Park for indemnity for his being hurt while doing his duty as special policeman on July 4, in this picnic-ground.

An ordinance ordering sidewalks laid on Vincennes road from Dummy Jumetion to Tracy avenule was read and adopted. The Board ordered all lots to be assessed to lay sidewalks, and appointed Meesrs. Gorton, Greenacre, and Maurer as Special Commissioners to assess.

The Commissioners of Roads were ordered to report work done at next meeting. G. Watters was duly sworn into office as Village Collector.

SHORT-HORN SALE,

Large Auction

in Bloomington, Ill. BLOOMINGTON, III.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

BLOOMINGTON, III., July 16.—To-day was held in the Fair Grounds of this city the first sale of short-horns under the suspices of the McLean County Stock-Breeders' Association, beginning county Stock-Breeders' Association, beginning at 10 o'clock a. m., and closing at a late hour in the evening. The sale was conducted by Col. J. W. Judy, the well-known stock-suctioneer, and was attended by many of the largest breeders in the country. Sales were made from the berds of J. W. R. Duncan, of Towanda Meadows, C. M. Niccols, of Leroy, and Josiah Chorn, of Towanda, all of this county, and that of Cohen, of Danville, Ky. The day was all that could be asked for, cool and sunshiny. The prices received are considered fair. The Cohen herd, being in thin flesh, brought prices lower than actual worth. Many of the animals soid are of fine pedigree. The list of sales is as follows:

From the herd of J. W. R. Duncan, Towanda Meadows: "Hidaigo," red bull, $300, Edward Ryburn, Hewworth, Ill. "Rossmond," seventh, red roan heifer, Meredith & Son, Cambridge, Ind., $1,025. "Mazurka," No. 34, a roan heifer, P. A. Coon, Washburn, Ill., $1,000. "Rosamond Tanch," a red cow, C. C. Parks, Wankegan, Ill., $700. "Lady Bates," a red roan cow, J. H. The meeting on the viaduct question that was to have taken place at 335 Blue Island avenue last evening did not occur. There will probably be no further public action on the matter by the citizens of that neighborhood, as they seem to think that any further action would be detrithink that any further action would be detri-mental to the cause. They have paid their as-sessment for the street improvement, and blame the Board of Public Works for not pushing the matter at once. These are the expressed views of several prominent citizens in that quarter. The neighborhood is one that would be vastly ben-cited by a few improvements of a public na-ture, such as sewers, gas, and the viaduot. The objection entertained by a railroad company is said to be the only obstacle in the way of this great improvement.

SUBURBAN NEWS.

audience-room of the First Methodist Church, Evanston, will be formally dedicated Sunday. It was expected that Bisbops Bowman and Andrews would have been present to assist in the peremonies, but telegrams were received from them yesterday, stating that it would be impossible for them to visit Evanston on the occasion, as they had engagements to dedicate churches elsewhere.

The programme for the day has, therefore, been arranged as follows: Three services will be held. The Rev. Dr. C. H. Fowler will conduct awarded to a contractor from Joliet, and will be commenced immediately. Mr. McCormick, who is building the Union Church, will have the supervision of the work.

There is considerable feeling among some of The Cost of Moving.

The firm of Wendell & Hyman, No. 225 Wabash avenue, importers of watches, clocks, diamonds, and silver-plated ware, were badly damaged Tuesday in moving their stock.

At the time of the fire in 1871, they, thinking it impossible for the flames to reach them, did not move, and lost everything. On this occcasion when the flames were within a square of their store, they deemed it advable to move. At 8.25 p. m. they began moving their stock. In two hours time they had removed everything. In the hurry and confusion that goods, although handled with care, were badly damaged. Their French clocks were seriously injured, some of beautiful unique patierns, worth $180 each. Their large stock of silver-plated wars, consisting of fruit-stands, with cut-glass bowls, toilet sets, flower uses, pichie-diabes, naphingrings, etc., are sadly damaged. Their large show-cases with mirrors present a demolished appearance. Their shelve-goods are almost worthless; watch crystais, broken by the gross, with all their smaller goods, are thrown into one miscellaneous heap, and the time occupied in assorting them from the undamaged will amount to as much as they are worth.

Notwithstanding their misfortune, this energetic firm will have their magnificent establishment in order by night, and then they will be able to ascertain the amount of their losses by moving out and back again. Their damage is certainly no small sum. To any person visiting them yesterday the scene was one of charlesion, and the miscellaneous heaps of broken and damaged fancy goods were sad to behold.

Strange that all the scandal about the fraudulent safe-robbery in Washington and Chief De-Whitely has not suggested the expediency of abolishing the Secret Service alto-

The Ohio Republican State Central Committee met yesterday, and "consulted," after the approved fashion of latter-day politicians. One hing seemed plain enough, and that was that he temperance question should not be allowed to come into the canvass, since there is no Legisbetween a finger and thumb the amount of vain repining which this conclusion will cause among the Republicans of Ohio. If there is anything that the politicians of that State would not go far out of the way to meet just now, it is the Spinner and Bristow are out. The quarrel i about the system of appointments in Spinner's Bureau. The sturdy old Treasurer knows little, and cares less about Civil-Service Reform, which Secretary is disposed to attempt. Mr. Spinner, it is said, will offer his resignation if the ultimate decision is against him. This report is probably incorrect. It would be a surprising thing if Mr. Spinner, during all the years that he has served the Government, had not learned that his first duty is obedience to orders from his superior officers.

A number of wooden shells have been erected already within the district burned on Tuesday night. These shells are used mostly for retailing beer. What they are used for, however, has nothing to do with their illegality. They are erected within the fire-limits, surrounded by the yet smoldering remains of the fire, when a spark may at any time ignite them. Let the lice tear them down at once. The authorities should begin immediately to show that they are earnestly in favor of a new policy in relation to

A correspondent of THE TRIBUNE held an in erview with Mr. Theodore Tilton, at his resilence in Brooklyn, yesterday. The conversaion is reported in another column. It may b relied upon as strictly authentic and accurate. Mr. Tilton said that his wife was inveigled into appearing before the Committee. Mrs. Tilton's testimony was that no improper overtures had ever been made to her by Mr. Beecher. Her husband characterized this statement a lehberate falsehood, and apologized for it by a onsideration of the motives which led to its utterance. Articles of separation between Mr. and Mrs. Tilton are in course of preparation. Now that the only conceivable reason for ontinued silence on Mr. Tilton's part-a desire to shield his wife-has been removed, it is to be noped that we will get through this nasty business without further delay. Mr. Tilton prom ises to tell all he knows in a sworn statement which will be submitted to the Investigating Committee next Monday night.

Zach Chandler and thurty-six other Senators and Representatives in Congress have issued an address to the country on behalf of the Republican party. The fact is suggestive. It indicates, first of all, that the Congressional leaders of the party believe that its recent record can not pass upon its merits: so they have fallen to patching up a leg for the corrupt old bedy to stand on. The address does not contain a kind word for President Grant and his Administration. There is a bodeful silence about Shepherd. We should like to have heard something about Shepherd. But, no. The Congressional leaders prefer to soar away into abstractions. They make a plea for power on the ground that they have held power for a long time, and a change at this time would be flying in the face of Providence. They say that the party has three great labors to perform before its term of usefulness can be stid to have passed. These labors are the enforcement of the Fourteenth Amendment by appropriate legislation; the reformation of the currency, which is now in an anomalous condition; and the furnishing of cheap transportation between the West and the seaboard. With this statement of some of the things the party has to do, the signers of the address are content. They say nothing of the conclusions which they expect to reach. They make no promises. The average man will decide without much assistance whether a party whose chief merit is his confidence or respect. We should like to hear from Mr. Howe, who is said to have written this address, why the "three great labors" which he so grandiloquently states were not performed at the last session of Congress.

A MATTER OF ENTERPRISE. The late fire has accomplished at least one good thing: It has shown the public the relative enterprise of the newspapers published in this city. The contrast has been notably in favor of THE TRIBUNE. We feel justified in alquent comment among newspapers throughout the country. It was 6 o'clock on Tuesday evening before the fire was sufficiently alarming to attract serious attention. Yet at the usual early hour the next morning THE TRIBUNE issued a fires by destroying these villainous seeds of paper of twelve pages, which, besides covering all the notable news of the world, gave the fullest. most accurate, and most graphic account of the conflagration that was printed, and a cut of the district which enabled its readers to trace out the boundaries of the fire. The cut was not a good one, but it was much better than those which the slower newspapers got out the next day. when THE TRIBUNE alone published a handsome engraving, showing both the "Burnt District" of 1871 and that of 1874, and giving the relative size of each. THE TRIBUNE published Wednesday a complete list of the business houses burn ed out, which the other newspapers copied or Thursday. THE TRIBUNE published a supplement the morning after the fire, and on other paper succeeded in doing this just one day later by filling up with several articles that had been printed in THE TRIBUNE a week or two before. We do not claim any particular credit for all these things, because they are no more than our subscribers expect from us; but we think it about time that other newspapers in the city should quit prating about enterpris and go to work to do Chicago Aurnalism credit in great emergencies. There is one morning newspaper in particular in this city that has something to say about its enterprise on all possible occasions. This newspaper, on this occasion, has been a reproach to the city. It tried to do on Thursday all that THE TRIBUNE had done on Wednesday, and failed miserably, except where is copied from THE TRIBUNE. It allowed the evening papers to run ahead of it, both in enterprise and circulation. We think that even the Post and Mail must have sold a larger number of papers. The morning newspaper we refer to formerly had some reputation for enterprise which atoned, in the eyes of some people, for its many offenses against decency. But latterly has driveled into a disgusting impotency, and its circulation must henceforth be among those who think that indecent slanders will compensate for cash or seller August. Meats were more active a lack of news. It is now only a journalists "Tom Collins," whose backbiting has lost its sting. Positive indecency in a newspaper is bad enough, but when it is allied with imbecility, the

They will find that enterprise pays. THE TRIBUNE presses were running Wednesday morning from 4 o'clock till noon, printing the largest edition ever issued by a daily paper in any city west of the Atlanti seaboard, and yesterday morning from 4 o'clos till 11 o'clock. The sale of the other morning papers on both days consisted principally of d ncies in the supply of THE TRIBUNE.

THE INDIANA DEMOCRATS.

The Indiana Democratic Convention Indiapapolis on Wednesday. The two most striking features of the proceedings were the speech of Gov. Hendricks and the platform of the Convention. In general, these two documents were of the same tenor, except that the Governor omitted a direct expression of judgment on one point in the platform, and the platform is innocent of a fallacy in support of which Gov. Hendricks labored earnestly. Thus the platform declares " that we are in favor of the redemption of the 5-20 bonds in greenbacks. according to the law under which they were esued;" and "in favor of the repeal of the law of March, 1869, which assumed to construct the law so as to make such bonds payable exclusively in gold." Mr. Hendricks, in his speech, though discussing the questions of nance and the currency, avoided all reference to the redemption of the bonds in greenback He left the square indorsement of repudiation to the Convention, and restricted himself to the expression of an opinion that the present currency is not irredeemable. On the other hand the Convention declared in favor of a tariff for evenue, while Gov. Hendricks expressed the pinion that all our financial troubles, and especially the depreciation of our currency, were due to the scarcity of gold caused by the fact that the balance of trade was always against us, to pay which "the red blood flows from the veins and arteries of the country." With all its reckesness and stupidity, the Convention was not guilty of uttering such preposterous nonsense

This Convention completes the record of the people of Indiana, so far as political conventions can do so, upon the question of destroying the national credit. That record is in painful con trast with that of the States of Iowa and of Illinois. In Iowa, the Republican and Independent Conventions placed themselves on record in favor of honest money, and declared that the obligations of the Government, having been sold in the markets of the world, could only be paid in the world's currency. The Republican Convention of Illinois expressly repudiated the inflation scheme, and, although in some respects cowardly and equivocal, was much more respectable than any faction in Indiana.

In both of these States the Senators had all been as deeply committed to shinplaster inflation as the Senators from Indiana, Still, the Republicans of Iowa and Illinois, when called upon to choose between the policy of their Senators and national honesty and sound currency, chose the latter.

In Indiana, however, the Republicans indorsed Morton and his shinplaster policy, and now the Democratic party demagogues have outdone their Republican rivals by an open proposition to repudiate the 5-20 bonds. The Indiana Republicans proposed to debase the currency. and the Democrats have now proposed to pay off the coin debt of the nation in the currency debased by the Republicana We do not believe that the people of Indiana have the least sympathy with either of these dishonest and villainous schemes. Six years ago, the Democrats of Indiana rushed pellmell into the Pendletonian scheme to issue bonds with them, and the Republicans then, having small faith in public honesty, adopted the same declaration of policy. Now, in 1874, we have the same discreditable performance over again, except that the propositions have been divided; the Republicans under Morton insisting on an unlimited issue of paper and its consequent depreciation to the lowest point. while the Democrats propose to force upon the public creditors this depreciated currency in satisfaction of the bonds. While the platforms of both parties on this quesluding to this fact, since the superiority of THE | tion are unworthy the respect or support of any TRIBUNE as a news-gatherer is a matter of fre- decent citizen, we regard that of the Democrats as the more flagrant of the two. The Democratic party has been long in the minority, both in the State and in the nation. It had tried every device. including repudiation and greenback inflation, without success. The only policy open to it which had not been tried was honesty, and that policy it had not the wit to adopt. Its Republican rival had proposed to water the currency, and authorize a partial repudiation of all the private debts of the country. The Democracy now propose to add to that the repudiation of a part of the public debt. They had the opportunity of reasserting the ancient and honored creed that the only money in which wages should be paid was that which was worth 100 cents on the dollar the world over; that irredeemable paper money was always subject to fluctuations, and hence could never furnish an honest measure of values; and that the credit of the Government could never be established on a firm basis until tts demand obligations were paid. Such a platform, however familiar to the Democrats of past times, would be new to most of the present generation; it would remind them of their Sundayschool lesson that "honesty is the best policy," and it would appeal to the inherent integrity of every man in the State. It would be conspicuous among the political literature of the day, and would give assurance to the country that the Democratic party was true to the faith of the fathers who had adorned and signalized its his-

The troops were massed in columns, extending from the grand stand of the race course to the Bois de Boulogne. The number of soldiers reviewed was 60,000. The review began at 3 o'clock, and consisted only of a march past the stand of the race-course, saluting Pres ident MacMahon as they did so. The grand stand was crowded with ladies, Ministers, and

BEECHER-TILTON.

The fire of Tuesday has eclipsed the Bea Tilton case in point of interest for the people of Chicago and its vicinity. Taking up the thread where it was broken off, we notice that Mr. Tilton has not only given testimony before the Investigating Committee more or less conflict-ing with her husband's letter, but has abandoned her home. The dispatches say that she has abandoned her children also, but it is hardly supposable that she has forsaken them withou the intention of returning, for, whatever judgment may be pronounced upon her hereafter, she cannot be accounted a good mother if she has deliberately forsaken her offspring. Nevertheless, the fact that Mrs. Tilton ha riven testimony conflicting with her husband (if the has done so) weakens Mr. Tilton's case naterially, and strengthens Mr. Beecher's in a corresponding degree. The statement made by Tilton's friend, Moulton, is a piece of unmitigated blather, and ought to be expunged from the records of the Committee as impertinent and consensical. It consists of frivolous and point ess hints at some great damning fact with which Moulton is charged to the bursting point, but which he will not divulge. Have we not had enough of this moral dropsy already? Let the great goose lay its goose egg at once and done with it! More clouds are gathering about Tilton's head just now than about Beecher's. There is every reason to suppose that the Investigating Committee is an honest and thorough one. If Mr. Tilton does not want to fit himself for the verdict passed upon him some time since by Dr. Leonard Bacon, he must come forward now and pen his budget. That mountain has been in but a ridiculous mouse, let us see what it is, and

PROTECTION FOR THE CENTRE OF THE CITY.

The suggestion in our article of yesterday, that the central part of the city should be protected from fire by open spaces against the woodentenement districts, was widely, and in most cases favorably, discussed. Some of our citizens exarcised their minds by locating that space, defining its dimensions, and specifying the uses to which it should be put. It was agreed on all hands that it should be used as a park for the oor. It was also agreed that an open space directly north of Twelfth street, and extending west to Halsted street, would be a perfect proection from fires originating in the wooden tenenents south of it. Thence it was proposed to extend it north on Halsted, or a street a block or two west, to Chicago avenue or some street near it, and thence eastward to the lake. Some of our real-estate men gave it as their opinion without calculating very closely, that the land could be purchased and the whole thing completed for $5,000,000 or $6,000,000. It certainly could be done now cheaper than at any future time. The newly-burnt district has been laid bare, and could readily be used for that purpose most of the way between the lake and the river. and the next fire may afford an equally favorable opportunity for an open, protecting space on the Vest, and perhaps the second on the North Side. The main business of London is transacted on an area not so large as that would be inclosed by the sort of park we have indicated. On it our banks, principal hotels, and largest business houses of all kinds could be located. They would be perfectly safe from the ravages of fire from without, and all new buildings within the proposed limits could be constructed on nearly fire-proof principles. Let this subject and all other means of safety be thoroughly discussed, and what is cheapest and

THE FIRE DEPARTMENT.

We do not join in the general abuse of the officers and men of the Fire Department. We are willing to concede that they all, rank and file, did their duty to the best of their ability with the means at their command. In the district where the fire originated and got headway the streets were narrow, the fire-plugs few in number, and the underground water-pipes so small hat two or three engines at work at one time could exhaust the supply. These were difficulties which embarrassed operations until the fire got such a start that only the resistance of brick walls could stay its progress. We do not mean to say that there were no mistakes, no ignorance, and no blunders but we insist that our whole Fire Department is and must be mefficient so long as it remains organized on the present system. Nine-tenths of the men who are demanding Benner's dismissal have a candidate ready for his place. Benner nor any man living can make our Fire Department what it should be until the system itself is changed.

In the first place, its organization should be taken out of the hands of politics, and that can only be done by taking it away from the City Government. It should be an independent organization. Its officers and men should be placed above and beyond the control exercised over all other appointments. It should have an organization and a discipline as rigorous as that of the army. The authority of the Chief should be absolute when the Department is at work. The discipline should be so enforced that no insubordination or inefficiency would be tolerated a moment. The privates of the force should be recruited and trained to their business; the force should be enlarged, and the machinery doubled, and the whole control of the Depart ment given to a body of men whose direct per sonal interests are dependent upon the successful management of what is to Chicago its most important defense.

It has been proposed, in the absence of a other organized body, that the reorganization of the Fire Department should be committed the control of the Board of Underwriters. In many respects, the Board of Underwriters would be the appropriate organization to direct this arm of the public defense. It has been also suggested that this Board should, out of the premiums on insurance, maintain the Fire Department. Any suggestion like the latter is not only absurd in itself, but calculated to do permanent injury to public and private credit. The people of Chicago must make up their minds to three distinct propositions: That we must have larger and more efficient Fire Department ; that this Department will cost a very large sum annually; and that this sum must be raised by taxation and paid cheerfully. Insurance, as we know by a costly experience, is of little avail where whole cities are consumed. The danger of such conflagrations makes insur ance higher here than in any other city, so that, in fact, we are paying in excessive insurance rates double the cost of maintaining a thorough Fire Department. How, let us have such a Department. Let it be organized, cost what it may, even if every engine and foot of hose we have be duplicated two or three times. Let us place the executive control co this Department in the hands of the Board of Underwriters, and let them recruit and select a force of officers and men, and frame a code of discipline that will cure all the evils which now hamper and disorganize the Department. The cost of all this in money is as nothing when compared with the cost of being without it, for we have reached the point of life or death.

EFFECTS OF THE CIVIL-RIGHTS BILL. Truman Smith, ex-Senator of the United States from Connecticut, has written a letter to Senator Browlow on the future of the negro ace. The communication was written a propos of the Civil-Rights bill. Mr. Smith thinks the measure uncalled for; that it is fraught with misfortune to both races, but particularly to the negro race. Prejudice on account of color is the evil it strikes at. This evil should be extirpated by other means than legislation. It is not in the power of Congress to eradicate that prejudice by any means at its command. The Civil-Rights bill would break up the comnon school system. It would turn over all the poor whites and the blacks almost without exception to utter ignorance. It would nake a unit of the white race as against the black. In the contest which would follow, the whites would be sure to win. This would be the case everywhere, except, perhaps, in South Carohna. The whites, thus united against the blacks, would cast themselves into the arms of the Northern Democracy. The Democracy are already calculating on taking possession of the Government at the next Presidential election by allying themselves with the Southern Damos racy. Such a coalition will be made. Whether it shall succeed or not, will be the great issue abor long enough. If its progeny be anything in the next Presidential campaign. The Credit Mobilier affair, the salary-grab, the Jayne and Sanborn swindles, the vacillating policy of Congress on the currency question, have brought discredit on the Republican party and favor the success of the Democracy. These are the views of Mr. Truman Smith. We agree with them, inasmuch as they portray the corrupt career of the Republican party. There is no soundness in that party. As a political organization it is rotten. In their interested and blundering advocacy of the Civil-Rights bill, they have aroused an opposition which will oust them of possession of the Government They have made the whites of the South a unit. In effecting this they have been aided by the arrogance of the negroes themselves. And there are enough people in the North who love justice and reform to unite with the whites of the South to see to it that the rights of white as well as black are respected. THE GRASSHOPPERS.

JAY COOKE & CO.

Examination of Two of the Partner in Philadelphia.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.
Philadelphia, Pa., July 16.—Before Register Mason this afternoon, Jay Cooke and Henry C. Fahnestock, late members of the bankrupt firm of Jay Cooke & Co., were examined by Messrs. Audly W. G. Gazzan, of New York, and J. D. Bailey, of Philadelphia, who represent William Tarrade, a creditor. Mr. Cooke was represented by Messrs. John C. Bullitt, Richard Ashurst, and R. C. McMurrie. Jay Cooke, on examination, asserted that the financial condition of the firm on the 1st of July, 1873, was perfectly solvent, and had made money in all transactions up to that time. The condition was the same on the 1st of September, and the same on the 15th of September. The knowledge of solvency was based upon the wealth of the firm, and that the profits were great, and that, on the morning of the 18th of September, there was considerably over $1,000,000 undivided. The gross amount of liabilities were over $7,000,000, and the assests double that amount. The firm, never to his knowledge, exchanged bonds of the Northern Pacific Bailroad Company for real estate. The firm during its bankruptcy made no exchange of Pennsylvania Raliroad bonds for real estate. At the time of the suspension he was not indebted to the firm, but had several hundred thousands of dollars to his credit; would be glad to answer any question at any time.

Mr. Fahnestock deposed to being the sworn senior and managing partner of the New York house, to which, at the time of the suspension, the London house was indebted; did not know how much the firm was solvent until 12 o'clock on the 18th of September; objected to Cooke's investment in Northern Pacific bonds personally and by letter. Mr. Cooke was always hopeful of relief at an early day.

During his examination Fahnestock said he thought that Gazzan did not understand the meaning of some of his questions, which was evidently the case. Adjourned.

Address of Republican Congre The New York Herald of the 14th

The New York Herald of the 14th contains the following dispatch from Washington:

After the adjournment of Congress, the magnates of the Republican party—Z. Chandler, J. M. Edmunds, and others—held several meetings to devise ways and means towards the inauguration of the Congressional campaign, and it was finally determined to requise Senator Howe to draft an address to the people of the United States. The paper is considered by the leaders be best possible defense of the party, and it said to be characterized by great advoltness. It is intended to be the basis upon which the party is to be united, and the Congressional battle is to be fought. It contains the essence of a thousand campaign speeches. The remarkable features are the absence of all calogy of, or even reference to, President Grant, and the admission that upon—the currency question the party is divided. The transportation question is treated in the most conservative manner, which it was deemed wise to do, since the feeling about raircad regulation runs high in Wisconsin and the West. This manifesto, which will be sent to all local Rapublican journals in the Union, with a request to be copied, constitutes the initiative of the campaign and the common rallying point. It is the first issued since 1866, when Republicans waged war on President Johnson and his followers.

FORKER RELATIONS UNDER REPUBLICAN RULE.

The document would make about a pine of the Herald, and purports to be a review of Republican and declares that, of the thirty years of Democratic control prior to 1861, there is hardly a memory left at which the nation should not blush. Under this rule Austria was bullied out of a Hungarian refugee, Maxico despoiled of a portion of her territory, Greytown demolished, and millions jingled in the ears of Spain as a lare for Chos. The Ostend manifesto is satirized; and, while our conduct towards weaker Powers was firm, during the years of Democratic control a naturalized citizen could not safely revisit his birthplace and letters could only be sent following dispatch from Washington:

Having disposed of Democratic diplomati

The Benellion Record.

The record of the Democratic Administration while the Rebellion was yet in its incipiency is next approached. Of the army, it says it was officered far too largely by those who had been educated in every solicity grace save that of allegiance. The navy was scattered in remote seas, while the doctrine of State rights was preached on every Democratic housetop. That "the people of the United States "may not forget that slavery is dead, this subject is elaborated, and all the Democratic sins of omission and commission laid bare to the world, until the greater fan of fomenting a wicked rebellion was committed.

THE GENEAT NATIONAL BEFORMS AND TRIUMPHS.
Having pointed out the evidences of unfitness "in the opinion of the Congressional Committee," why Democracy should never be resurrected, the address takes up the great and glorious course of the Republican party since March 4, 1881. The Union has been preserved, Slavery abolished, human rights have gained the sanction of three new chapters added to the National Constitution; murder, organized in several States, bearing the name of Ku-Klut, has been exposed, convicted, punished. The new ers in diplomacy growing out of the Tresty of Washington, the relinquishment of the San Juan clam, and the payment of the Geneva award, are pointed to as Republican triumphs. The establishment of postal troates with every nation on the earth, and cheapening the postal rate, are alluded to with pride.

ment of postal treaties with every nation on the earth, and cheapening the postal rate, are alluded to with pride.

THE SPANISH DIFFICULTY.

This is all the Committee find suitable in regard to the Virginius outrage: "When, in October last, a Spanish Vice-Consul in Cuba so far forgot the respect due to the United States as to seize upon a vessel saling under the protection of her flag, Spain promptly, without the firing of a gun or spilling a drop of blood, made that homorable reparation which every fust Government is glad to make for a wrong done."

THE UNPARALLELED PROSPERITY OF THE COUNTRY, increase of inland commerce, extension of railroads in every direction, and increase of our population, are all traced to the beneficent administration of the Government by the Republican party. The policy of discontinuing subsidies to railroads is indersed, after which the Bird of Freedom is let loose, and a gush of rhetoric more brilliant than the comet indulged in at much length. Coming back to facts, the address details the progress made in reducing the public debt and taxes, while the stability of our finances is considered a good card for the fall elections.

THE APPEAL TO THE PROPLE

then begins as follows:

"You are about to select Representatives to a new Congress. We cannectly entreat you to send the truest and splest Republicans, and not Democrats, You will select more on the other. No matter what the individual may call himself, or what disguise he may wear, he will be a Republican or a Democrat. There is at present no room for any other style in our politics. If you do not mean to retract the past, you will select Republicans, and not Democrats."

This paragraph hits at the Southern Republicans who voted against the Civil-Rights bill, and some who did not respect party-traces with decility. The assertion that the mission of the Republican party is dead

This paragraph hits at the Southern Republicans who voted apainst the Civil-Rights bill, and some who did not respect party-traces we'b docility. The assertion that the mission of the Republican party is dead is denied, and, in regard to the occasion for political effort on its part, it is asserted that to preserve the good already accomplished, and advance the work of reform, is still its mission.

are pointed out as demanding present consideration. It says:

"The Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution is not yet enforced by appropriate legislation. Millions of American citizens are denied even the common-law rights of locomotion because they are black. If such wrongs are to be redressed, the Republican party alone can do it.

is in an abnormal condition and must be reformed. It is undoubtedly true that the Republican party is not agreed how to effect that reform; neither is the Democratic party. Neither party, as such, yet sees clearly the right way. But there are two reasons for believing that the Republican party, rather than its rival, can best treat this great question of the finances: First, as the former has hitherto found the true way through graver difficulties than this, so we believe it is more than apt to find the true way through this, Second, you have abundant assurance that, when Republicans discover the true way, they will pursue it. That assurance has not as yet been given by the other party, while the Republican party has given undoubt-

"According to private information sent from Madrid," says one of these letters quoted in today's Republique Franciase, "Marshal Serrano is believed to have also made known to those three powers his intention to claim from France an indomnity of at least 250,000,000 francs when the Republicans shall have gained a decided victory over the Carlists. The ground of this claim will be the support lent to the Carlists by France. The Government of Marshal MacMahon has perhaps—indeed had—the will but not the power to prevent the French Legitimists from assisting the Spanish Carlists, and it appears probable that on this subject a question of international law will be raised destined to be examined and resolved by an International Congress."

RATES TO THE SOUTHWEST.

A meeting of the General Superintendents and General Freight Agents of all the railroads leading to the Southwest was held last Tuesday and Wednesday at the office of the General Superintendent of the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railroad, for the purpose of ascertaining whether an advance in freight rates to Southwestern points could be made and maintained, and whether it was not practicable to pool earnings from Chicago and St. Louis to Kansas City, Leavenworth, Atchison, and St. Joseph. THE FOLLOWING GENTLEMEN were present: W. R. Arthur, General Superintendent St. Louis, Kansas City & Northern; J. C. McMullen, General Superintendent Chicago & Alton; Robert Harris, General Superintendent Chicago, Burlington & Quiney; Hugh Riddle, General Superintendent Chicago, Bock Island & Pacific; L. W. Courtwright, General Freight Agent St. Louis, Kansas City & Northern; James Hill, General Freight Agent Kansas City, St. Joseph & Council Bluffs; W. H. Reid, General Western Agent Chicago & Alton.

Mr. W. R. Arthur was elected Chairman, and E. F. Goddard acted as Secretary.

The majority of those present considered the pooling of earnings impracticable, and, after a lengthy debate, it was decided NOT TO POOL for the present, but to advance the existing rates about 10 per care.

The following is THE NEW TARIFF adopted by the meeting, and which all the above named roads have bound themselves to to:

From Chicago to	Class	Class 2.	Class 8.	Class	Speci

Omaha			.65
St. Joseph	1.00	.75	.60	.45
Topeka	1.35	1.05	.85	.65

Heretofore there was considerable opposition between Chicago and St. Louis to Atchison, St. Joseph, Leavenworth, Kansas City, and Council Bluffs, and consequently the rates to these places were very low. At one time but 25 cents per hundred was charged to these places for all classes of freight. This opposition is now done away with, and under the new arrangements high rates can be made and maintained.

DANVILLE. PARIS & VINCENNES BAILROAD.

Correspondence of The Cheago Tribune.

PARIS III., July 13.—Among the improvements
now in progress calculated to benefit this particular section and add materially to the conticular section and add materially to the convenience of shippers to and from your city is the Danville, Paris & Vincennes Railroad. Railroads multiply so rapidly, it is almost impossible to keep the run of them. Believing, however, that this one is destined to become one of the most important feeders to your city, its advantages should be more thoroughly understood.

The management of the road is compared.

follows: Messra. J. C. Short, Danville, President; H. Sauford, Paris, Vice-President; and B. F. Mathias, Paris, Superintendent.

A trip over the road to Danville afforded an

B. F. Mathias, Faris. Superintendent.

A trip over the road to Datwille afforded an opportunity for observation as to its construction, which is very substantial, with a view to permanency and economy. Thirty to forty carloads of iron rails arrived here's yesterday. Today the track extends south to Marshall, about 20 miles distant: at which place it crosses, or forms a junction with, the Vandalia Road, running east and west. It is the purpose of the officers of the Danville, Paris & Vincennes Road to push it to the Ohio River, and to southern connections, as rapidly as possible. By reference to the map, you will see that this road, with its connections north, is a direct line, and traverses a tier of eastern counties well known as among the most extensive producers of corn, cattle, and hogs in the West, much of which must find their way to your city. And the Southern connections of this road will open an avenue for the vast quantity of naval stores and other Southern products to the Northwest, and throw into your city a trade quite beyond the expectations of its projectors, or the ideas of your citizens, to say nothing of the return of beef, pork, lard, and oils for Southern consumption. Add to this the many articles of usefulness which the enterprise of your city offers to this section and the Far South, and you can imagine the extent of traffic between the various points South and the metropolis of the West.

Pears of a Famine in Kentucky.

A correspondent writee to the Louisville courier-Journal from Jamestown, on July 7, as follows:

"Here in Southern Kentucky we are on the eve of a famine which threatens to be very serious, as well as in the western portion of Kentucky. Last year the season was so exceedingly wet that there was scarcely a half-crop raised, in consequence of which our people are suffering much, and already several are reported to have starved to death, and many others are living on bread alone.

"Very early this season our fariners made vigorous efforts to pitch heavy crops, but, owing to the protracted wet weather and high water, were prevented from getting our best lands in in due time, the raise continuing up to the 4th of May, since which time we have had no rain to wet the land. while the succession of the su BERY.
Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribuns. WASHINGTON, D. C., July 16 .- The Solicitor of the Treasury, who has been engaged since his ession to office in endeavoring to ferret out the secret of the bogus safe robbery, has become exceedingly disgusted at the comme made by interested parties. He took occasion to say to-day that some person had reported to Secretary Bristow that he (Wilson) was hand in glove with Whitely and his crowd, and was doing scoreday shatow that he (which) was also he glove with Whitely and his crowd, and was doing everything in his power to screen them, and prevent the real facts from becoming known. This the Solicitor characterized as false, saying that, on the contrary, he held Whitely at a distance, refusing to dine, ride, or walk with him, so that no ground might be given for believing that, wrong induences were at work. The Solicitor only held such communications with Whitely as it e public business demanded, and as were unavoidable. Mr. Wilson insisted that it was scarcely fair to attack him before he had an opportunity to do any work to demonstrate what is in him, and he certainly seems to be right about it. He commented upon the fact that, about the time the above complaint was made to the Secretary. Whitely had also called on Bristow, and complained that Wilson had not been treating him fairly in his investigation; that he had shown him (Whitely) the cold shoulder, and had turned all the thieves and loafers in New York locse on him, trying to make a case against and run him out of the secret service. Mr. Wilson had an extended interview this afternoon with Secretary Bristow, and explained at considerable length the evidence of each witness was obtained by a close and thorough questioning, when the rethe evidence heard in New York and Brooklyn. The evidence of each witness was obtained by a close and thorough questioning, when the results were reduced to writing and sworn to before the United States Commissioner. Both Secretary Bristow and the Solicitor decline to give any information as to the opinion arrived at, but the latter stated that he is now awaiting the arrival from New York of a well-known excessories. from New York of a well-known corresponden and that the report, which will be of considerable

THE CASE REFORE THE GRAND JURY.

The case before the grand just.

The proceedings were had in the burglary investigation by the Grand Jury to-day. Mr. Riddle's triends are inclined to protest against snap judgment being entered against him, as having lost control of the case. They assert their belief not only that indictments will be found, but that among those indicted will be Messrs. Harrington and Whitely. Appearances do not promise any indictments, but they may be in this case more than usually deceptive.

UNEXPENDED APPROPRIATIONS.

OPINION BY THE FIRST COMPTROLLER. WASHINGTON, D. C., July 16 .- The proper officers of the Treasury will be able in a few days to complete the account of the unexpended balances of moneys appropriated for other than permanent specific purposes of the Government during the past two years, and which, by law, year ending June 30 last, and to be covered into what is commonly called the sur-plus fund. Some delay has been oc-casioned by the necessity of ascertaining which were and which were not permanent specific appropriations, and now that that point is settled authoritatively by the opinion of the First Comptroller, the account of moneys stand-ing to the credit of specific appropriations will be separated from the indefinite appropriations, and the balances of the latter, amounting to a very large figure, will be duly carried to the sur-was asked upon several matters pertaining to this subject, and his reply was to-day laid before out to-morrow or Saturday in the form of a circular to the various officers of the Government interested in, or concerned with, the matters to which it relates. The opinion, in substance, is as follows: Sec. 5 of the Legislative, Executive, and Judicial Appropriation act of June 20, 1874, in effect, repeals so much of Sec. 2 of the Army Appropriation act of June 16, 1874, as is inconsistent with its provisions. The latter section relates to appropriations for the Quartermaster and Commissary Departments, but excepted from its operation money necessary to pay accounts reported by those departments and in process of settlement in the office of the Legislative act relates to, and requires all expended balances of appropriations which shall have remained upon the books of the Treasury for two fiscal years to be CARRING TO THE SURPLUS FOND and covered into the Treasury, with a proviso exempting certain appropriations from its operation, but not including those mentioned in the exception in Sec. 2 of the Army Appropriation act, In this respect the two sections are inconsistent, and the last in date must prevail as to what constitutes permanent, specific appropriations, which are to continue available until otherwise ordered by Congress.

The Comptroller says: "It is not necessary to name each appropriation which may be deemed a permanent, specific appropriation, but I understand the term to mean and embrace the appropriations to continue until the completion of the work or service for which they are made. The appropriation for collection of revenue from tentoms, for payment of interest on the public debt, for steamboat inspection, for Maxine Hospital Service, for funding duties, etc., are

APPLICATIONS FOR NATIONAL BANK CIRCULATION.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 16.—The applications from the West and South for National Banking capital reached to-day the sum of $4,000,000. $4,000,000. SPINNER'S FIGHT.

It is stated to-day in the matter of Gen. Spinner's fight for the privilege of appointing to va-cancies in his own office that that gentleman had written a letter directly to the President, urging that if he cannot control such appoint-ments he will resign, and that the Secretary says, to parmit Spinner to have his own way in this matter would universally encourage insub ordination in the Department.

There is now no fund out of which to pay for carrying on Civil-Service examinations, and appointments must hereafter be made under such rules as the heads of departments choose to prescribe. Secretary Bristow seems inclined to have an examination similar to that of the Civil-Service Board to ascertain the fitness of candidates, but it is a matter entirely within his own control.

CRIME.

Special Danatch to The Chicago Tribuna.

WILKEMARRE, Pa., July 16.—The abduction of two children is causing great excitement in the upper part of this county. In the village of Nicholaon, on Monday, and when a traveling show had left the place, a Mrs. Robinson made the horrible discovery that her two little daughters, 12 and 14 years of age, were missing. They had attended the atternoon performance, but were not seen afterward. Yesterday the half-crazed mother hastened to Dummore, where the circus was stopping, and, in the company of Chief of Police Ferber, of Scranton, endeavored to ascertain the whereabouts of her children, only to learn that the villains who had induced the girls to follow them were discharged on the day following the abduction, and had gone no one knew whither. The mother is wetermined to follow the destroyers of her happiness, and rescue her daughters from a life of shame. Two Young Girls Abducted.

UTICA. N. Y., July 16.—A special dispatch to the Utica Herald from Fort Plain says that an attempt was made this morning to wreck and rob the pay-car of the New York Central Bailway. Paymaster Reed left Albany with some $50,000, and a force of six men. The would-be robers had placed an obstruction on the track at a secluded place, well chosen for such a crime, near a piece of woods. The work-train came along and discovered the obstruction in time to flag the pay-car.

Later information is that the work-train, after removing the obstructions, left a man secreted to watch the track. Soon he saw two men come out of bushes and place a huge tie across the track. He started for them, and they ran. The Supern-tendent was soon on the spot, the pay-car was stopped, and the men gave chase, but failed to catch the rascals.

Beaten to Death by Roughs.

JEFFERSONVILLE, Ind., July 16.—Joseph Boyer, the man who was so terribly beaten yesterday by Corbin and Gordon, died this forenoon. Corbin and Gordon were arrested at New Albany, brought here, and locked up. The Coroner held a post mortem examination, and the jury returned a verdict that deceased came to his death by blows on the head from brickbats and an ale bottle in the hands of Sam Gordon and Ed Corbin. Great indignation is expressed against the murderers, and there are some fears that there will be an effort made to lynch them.

Louisville, Ky., July 16.—At Berea, Ky., last Monday, a youth named James Walkup shot and fatally wounded Miss Margaret Painter. The cause for the murder was not known.

At Crab Orchard, Ky., last Saturday, a boy named Goberly cut a man in the wrist with a pocket-knife, from which he died next day. It seems the boy was sailing apples and the man seems the boy was selling apples, and the man playfully grabbed at the basket, when the boy struck at him with a knife, and an artery was severed.

THE CHINCH-BUG IN ILLINOIS.

Great Damage Done to Corn the Present Season.

Jacksonville, Ill., (July 13) Correspondence of the St.

Louis Republican.

Your correspondent has had occasion to visit several localities in this county, and finds that the ravages of the chinch-bugs upon the growing corn is much greater than was first reported. A Mr. Leadford, residing 4 miles east of Jacksonville, has 10 acres of corn that has been totally ruined by these pests. The entire field locks as if it had been scalded with boiling-hot water—the stalks being dead and dry, and all fallen to the ground. Many other fields in the neighborhood are one-fourth and one-half destroyed with countiess millions of the bugs going for the remaining good parts; and, there is no calculating the extent of damage that will be sustained to this cereal, as the insects are, seemingly, just beginning to make their appearance. In some fields, apparently untouched and in a fine growing condition, by stripping off the lower leaves of the stalks, these bugs may be found in great number, so it may well be supposed that their disastrous work has but just begun. Recent advices from Brown, Pike, and other adjoining counties calculate the losses in their localities from these same pests in about the same manner as do farmers of this county. It may be safely estimated, say a good many farmers, that at least one-half of the entire corn crop will be destroyed. In many instances these bugs have been seen migrating from stubble-fields to fields of corn near by in great armies, so numerous in places that you could not see the ground. These insects have been steadily increasing in numbers the past few years, and, should the increase continue in the same ratio, and no plans be devised to abate the terrible destroyers, it will be almost out of the question to raise corn, oats, or even wheat in this country, in a few more years. The farming community are becoming much alarmed at the present state of affairs, and, if any of your readers can give an available mode by

A Painful Story Contradicted.

Many papers have published a report, coming from Sat Lake City, to the effect that a young man named William B. Blackhurst had been buried alive there, and that the coffin having subsequently been opened, it was found that he had revived, and in his deperate attempts to escape from his agonizing incarceration had toru the skin and flesh from his face, and pulled his hair out by the roots, and turned completely over. Mr. Joseph E. Taylor, the city sexton. denies the whole story. He says: "Several times last week I was stopped in the street by individuals asking such questions as the following: 'Is it true young Blackhurst was buried alive?' Had he torn his hair out by the roots?' 'Had he turned over in his coffin?' etc., which I invariably amswered in the negative, with explanations. His friends were annoyed and grieved by questions of a similar nature, and, to ness, cursing such interference.

It is bad, but it might have been so much worse that the country ought to be thankful, for it seems to be conceded that Chicago, like a favorite infant, is entitled to so much assistance that if anything happens to her every one must help.

Chicago makes everything a success. Even while this fire was raging with its fiercest intensity, an operator sent word that it was a good thing. He telegraphed: operator sent word that it was a good thing. He telegraphed:
"The whole of Chicago has not only had another big conflagration, but a great purification as well, and wish, in the end, be much better for it by securing in the district burnt wider streets and a substantial class of buildings compared with those lost." These words were noticable because at the time they were telegraphed there was a strong possibility that the conflagration would sweep through the magnificant buildings of the rebuilt district.

Now, who is to blame for this? Chicago itself, of course. We fancy chief Lippert would have given a better account of the fire if it had happened in the Cream City.

There is evidently some weak spot in the Chicago Fire Department. It is either weak in numbers and machines, or badly managed—perhaps both. Certainly Michigan water will quench fire if promptly used in sufficient quantity. But Chicago don't seem to know how to do it. And, of course, chicago must suffer until she learns how. The worst of it is that those people who do not deserve to suffer are the ones who suffer most. An incompetent City Government is what's the matter with Chicago.

At 9 o'clock last evening there was every reason to believe that we should lay before our readers this morning another story of disaster and ruin from the city which has already filled so large a place in the public mind in connection with its terrible sufferings from fire. The second visitation of caismity is enough to arouse the deepest sympathies of the entire nation, but compared to the awful devastation of the first fire it is a matter which can be lightly dwelf upon.

FIRES ELSEWHERE. The Confingration at Oshkosh.

Correspondence of The Chicago Stribuna.

Oshkosh, July 14, 1874.

Correspondence of The Chicago Stribuna.

Osmkoski, July 14, 1874.

I arrived here at 6:45 p. m., and immediately repaired to the scene of the fire. There are, up to this hour (10 p. m.) divided opinions as to the cause, some alleging it originated in a small barn in the rear of a blacksmith-shop, occasioned by the sparks thrown from heated iron, and communicating with the dry hay strewn along the yard, while others maintain it was caused by some neighboring children playing with matches at the barn described. This was situated a short distance north of the centre of Main street, and two squares west. Nearly one-half of Main street is gone, including the engine-house. Wagner's new hall, which was in process of erection, and innumerable business houses. The writer passed through the burnt district up to 8 o'clock. It extends three-quarters of a mile almost directly north, and a half mile northeast, with a width of about a half a mile. There has been no rain in this section for a long time, and everything was as dry as can be described by that significant word. When the fire broke out, there was a strong wind almost directly from the south, which greatly accelerated the rapid progress of the flames. Then it veered round to the south, which greatly accelerated the rapid progress of the flames. Then it veered round to the south, which greatly accelerated the rapid progress of the flames. Then it veered round to the south, which greatly accelerated the rapid does not affect the poorer class of citizens, being more closely confined to prosperous retail merchants and the more thrifty residence-owners. In passing through the streets bounded on each side by the smoldering ruins, men were lying about, overcome by the heat and exertion incident to the occurrence, but were quickly succored and cared for. These were scattering and few; but, outside of the fire-bounderies, they laid progress or heater on every hand. Such scenes as these are calculated to bring out the noblest impulses of humanity, and here it has been manifes for their relief. Instances were frequent where ladies surrendered their carriages for the same purpose, and, on such occasion, the enthusiasm redoubled, and each appeared to vie with one another to see who could render the greatest services. An approving God surely will look down to-night and contemplate man's humanity to man.

The excitement was at its culminating point here at 7 o'clock. Pale and haggard faces were seen at every turn, and eager discussion on the fire-topic was incessant. As in all considerable places, when a calamity of the proportions of this befalls the citizens, a certain element resorted to liquor to stimulate their decreasion, and intoxicated men were everywhere to be seen.

From Main to Stevens streets, Washington avenue on both sides was an almost solid front of buildings, of brick, stone, and wood, and in three hours after the flames broke out, not a building remained on the avenue east of Main street. All efforts to stay the flames were futile; there were no fire-engines not fire-department, save an indifferently organized hook-and-ladder company, and three or four Baboock extinguishers.

From our special dispatches it seems that the fire commenced yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock, in Nelson & Co's meat-market, on the south side of the avenue, and, the wind blowing strong from the south-southwest, the flames spread east, west, and north with great rapidity. Correspondents of the Boston Transcript are relating instances of curious coincidences. We quote: "A gentleman dreamed about Commencement time of a coilege mate whom he never knew well or cared for especially, and had not seen or heard of, or thought of for a decade. Next day he saw him in Boston. He had lately returned from a protracted absence from the country. A lady dreamed of an old family servant who quit her house years ago, settled at a distance, and was as much segregated from her and a stranger to her thoughts as though inhabiting another sphere of existence. She called on her within twenty-four hours.

"About a dozen years ago, I met one day, on Washington street, as I thought, a citizen of a distant town with whom I had iong before a slight acquaintance, but whom I had not seen or thought of for many years. As we passed each other I saw it was not he, but two blocks farther on I met the very man. Having had one similar experience before, this became the more strongly impressed upon my mind, About two years after, I was walking one evening on Tremont street, on the sidewalk lately removed, and when near West street gate I was on the point of speaking to Mr. H., an intimate business acquaintance, but the gas-light at that moment showed it was a stranger whom I had met instead of my friend. The other incident came to my mind, and I thought, 'Would it not be a curious circumstance if I should meet Mr. H., during my walk?' and, to my astonishment, I did meet and talk with him on that very sidewalk before I got to Park street corner."

The Paris Mint has just completed the mannfacture of a bar of iridiated platins of the enormous weight of 500 pounds, and worth 210,000 france, the exhibition of which recently took place at the Conservatore des Arts et Metiers of Paris, in the presence of delegates from foreign countries and members of the Academy of Sciences, invited by Gen. Morin, director of the establishment. That mass of metal, quite exceptional for its size and homogeneousness, is to be used in making the standard meters and kilograms required by various Governments for the adoption of the metrical system, or the comparison of their weights and measures. Each set will cost 3,500 francs, and forty-five have been ordered by different powers. The fusion of the metal was effected by the aid of seven blow-pipes of oxyhydrogen gas inserted into the cover of an enormous crucible; forty cubic meters of that fluid were sufficient to keep up the combustion of the seven-jots of ordinary gas during the two hours the combustice lasted. The light of the incandescent metal was so intense that the melting pot could only be looked into with the aid of a colored class. Many centuries may pass before the occasion should arise for such a work as that executed, as the production of platina is very limited, and does not exceed from a ton to a ton and a half annually.

THE SWAGE-BLOCK PATENT CASE.

Judges Drummond and Davis delivered a joint opinion yesterday in the case of the exceptions to the Master's amended report in the well-known swage-block patent case. Judge Drummond, who was the spokesman in giving the pinion, said that in the exceptions taken to the laster's last report but three points had been idered; first, as to the amount of profits the fendants made by the use of plaintiff's defendants made by machine and the measure of the profits as stated by the Master, and it is considered that they are too large and the standard adopted by the Master adly, the number of the rails allowed by the Master, which were simply cut and included among the mended rails. The Master allowed sixth in some cases. A larger proportion Thirdly, as to the allowance made by the laster for the use of plaintiff's machine before a acquired title to a patent. The stipulation patent, and not the right to sue for damages ued before he had title, and therefore all the lowance made by the Master for profits before plaintiff acquired title to the patent was er-eous. This was very important in the case of Michigan Southern & Lake Shore Railway, ailroad Company.

The view which the Master took of the evince was such that he thought he could not ke into consideration any evidence except what rave special data on which he could make his ons, but the Court took a more liberal riew, particularly in view of the extent of the at still that it was a useful machine. A decree was accordingly prepared in one case, that of the Ulinois Central Railroad Company, as follows: Himois Central Railroad Company, as follows:

And now, at this day, the Court, being suddicivily advised upon the exceptions heretofere filed on the part of the complainant as well as of the defendants, sustains all exceptions of the defendants to the Master's report which object to the amount of profits and the measure thereof used by the defendants by the use of time complainants' machine, and also sustains all exceptions of the defendants to the Master's report which object to the proposition allowed by the Master's report of cut rails out of the number of mended rails, and also sustains all exceptions of the defendants which object to the allowance by the Master's report of the trails out of the number of mended rails, and also sustains all exceptions of the defendants which object to the allowance by the Master's report, the complainant's machine by the defendants being the defendants being the Master's report, the Court overrules the exceptions of the defendants to the Master's report, the Court overrules the exceptions of the complainants to the Master's report, the Court overrules the exceptions of the complainants to the Master's report, the case should not be sgain referred back to the Master, but that the Court bound find the amount of profits which the defendants have respectively made by the use of the complainant's machine, doth find the same to be the sum of $91,080.33. The same of the complainant the sum of $91,080.33. So as aforeaded found, within 30 days from the date of this decree, and in default thereof that execution issue therefor. And it is further ordered that the said Illinois Central Railroad Company, pay to the safe complainant the sum of $91,080.33. So as aforeaded found, within 30 days from the date of this decree, and in default thereof that execution issue therefor. And it is further ordered that the said Illinois Central Railroad Company, its servants and agents, be perpetually enjoined and restrained from

A decree was entered against the Chicago & lton Railroad Company for $36,226 38, against the Michigan Southern & Lake Shore Railroad Company for $222,661.89, against the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne & Chicago Railroad Company for $33,698.80, and against the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad Company for $34,594.83, making a grand total of $419,162.31, as against about $733,000 as made by the Master's report. The Judge, however, said that the Master had done a large amount of work, and, taking his standpoint, no fault could be found with his findings.

Appeals were immediately taken by all the standpoint, no fault could be found with his findings.

Appeals were immediately taken by all the companies to the Supreme Court, and, at the suggestion of Judge Davis, the cases will be consolidated so as to be virtually one, the evidence being incorporated in only one case. Separate decrees were entered in each case, similar to the one above except as to amount, and the Judge said that, as far as the Circuit Court was concerned, this was the end of the case; that the present decrees were drawn so asto include all the numerous exceptions which had been made; that no notice had been taken in the opinion of the length of the patch, but it was considered in the amount of the decree. The Master's compensation was fixed at $4,000.

As to the Pittsburg & Fort Wayne Company, Judge Drummond remarked that the exception as to the price of coal being taken into account, must be overruled, as any evidence thereon must have been introduced before the Master, and it had no right to insist on the lower price ruling at Pittsburg. Finally the bill was dismissed, as to the Presidents of the roads, and all other parties made defendants except the railroad companies themselves, the real parties in interest, and thus ended the controversy of the Swage block patent case. The next chapter will come from Washington.

THE P. O. A B. COMPANY.

The affairs of the People's Omnibus & Baggage Company, which have been running quietly for some time back, were brought out for an airing again by a bill filed by D. L. Hough as assignee of that Company. Hough, after stating the particulars of the proceedings against the Company and his appointment as assignee, states that on the 9th day of May, 1872, the Directors of the Company adopted certain by-laws under their charter, by which they have since been governed. Since the last of July, 1873, until the time when the first three for the notes, one for $5,000, two for $2,500 each, and three for $5,333.33 each, each being for a short time and given to various parties. The planniff claims that all th the sd day of July, 1-13, J. R. Bickerdike, as agent of George Bickerdike; came into possession of all of said notes, and, plaintiff alleges, concored a scheme for gaining possession of the greater part of the Company's assets, and so govern its affairs. To further this end, he went to L. J. Gage, Cashier of the First National Bank, and represented that the Company wished a loan of $25,000, at the same time intimating that it did not expect him to loan all of said money, but to nominally do so, representing that it did not expect him to loan all of said money, but to nominally do so, representing that the Directors would pass a resolution authorizing their President and Treasurer to mortgage the Company's assets as security for two notes,—one for $24,000 and the other for $500. The first note was to be due in ninety days, the other in two years, said both to draw interest at the rate of 15 per cent. Bickerdike also promised that the six notes above described should temporarily be put in Gage's hands for further security, the latter giving therefor a nominal credit of $25,000. Pratt was then to draw his check for the amount of the credit, give it to Bickerdike, and he was to hand it to Gage, who would return the six notes and also indorse without recourse the $24,500 and $500 notes to Bickerdike. By this means Bickerdike would have the six notes and also the two for $25,000 secured by trust-deed or mortgage on the Company's property. A Directors' meeting was accordingly held, the notes given and returned, and the trust-deed executed to George Herbert. In December, 1878, Bickerdike sold the note for $25,000 to W. D. Matheny, but complainant claims that this was not a bona fide sale. He also alleges that the execution of that note, and the one for $500 was void us not having been properly authorized by the Company; that the notes are also without consideration, and also void because of fraud and collusion in the making. Moreover, they were paid before they came into Buckerdike's hands, and he took them as Treasurer. The trust-deed also is claimed to be void, because the Directors never had any authority from the stockholders to mortgage the property, and because the charter confers no such power on any one. The Directors' meeting, Hough alleges, was also a delusion, and no majority was present to vote for the pretended mortgage or loan. Lastly the trust-deed was given by collusion, and Matheny took the notes after maturity, and with due notice of all equities. The complainant, therefore, asks that the two notes and trust-deed be declared void, and surrendered, and canceled, and for such other relief as may be equitable.

The ex-President was then called to the plat-form to respond to the vote of thanks for his services which had been adopted by the Associa-tion. He responded in a short and appropriate speech, and asked permission to give the Society a motto for its guidance during the coming year. Last year he had given as the motto: "Try to Excel, not Undersell." This year the motto most needed was, "Uphold Your Officers."

The report of the Committee on Foreign Medals was presented and referred back to the Committee, on account of a difference of opinion in reference to a technical objection made by the Secretary.

Mr. Tompkins again came to the front, and moved that the Shaw and the Southworth patents be considered proper topics of consideration by the Convention.

Mr. Southworth moved that the resolution be laid on the table. The motion was lost.

Mr. Tompkins then delivered himself of a speech, the principal point of which was an attack upon Mr. Southworth, and patentees of photographic apparatus in general. He read a number of extracts from a speech made at the Couvention at Buffalo last year by Mr. Southworth, in which that gentleman asserted that no association has any right, either legally or morally, to contest any patent. Mr. Tompkins then proceeded to say that he had consulted eminent lawyers in reference to the question, and had been assured by them that any such assertion was ulterly unfounded. He personally was engaged in defending a suit which Mr. Southworth had brought against him. In doing so he thought he was doing good work for the profession in general. The speaker then asserted that the Southworth patent was by no means a new thing. He stated that he had seen the same kind of sliding-plate, dated 1845. Considerable applause followed this statement, at the close of which Mr. Tompkius quoted a number of other author-

Resolved, That this Association pay the permanent Secretary the actual expense of said assistant.

Mr. Edward L. Wilson opposed the resolution, and by almost a unanimous vote it was laid on the table.

The Chairman then announced Messrs. Hall, Knight, and Lockwood as a Committee on the Constitution. The Robinson brothers, Abraham and Issac keepers of the hotel bearing their name at the corner of fifth avenue and Lake street, adjoining the scene of the late gunpowder plot, are in sore trouble. Yesterday they came to that intense heat which knows no bounds, and entered the leather-store of Brecker & Saurborn, No. 119 Lake street, the building wherein the plot was laid, and, not finding the proprietors in, made Mr. E. Jennings, a clerk, a target for invectives of a kind which startled him for the nonce. They were indignant because they believed Messrs, Brecker and Saurborn had informed the authorities that they had a hand in the flendish scheme, and unloaded their wrath on Mr. Jennings. The latter is a powerful man, and gave Ike the grand bounce with a rapidity which also caused his brother to beat a retreat. Smarting under this treatment, they returned to the attack after the door had been locked against them. They used their heads as battering-rams, and smashed in the windows just in time to fall an easy prey to an officer, who arrested and locked them up in the Armory.

Pious But Human.

Prous But Pluman.

From the Doubtstown (Pa.) Temecrat.

There is a wealthy, selfish, somewhat arrogant and very pious farmer in Chester County, who, understanding his busidess well, outs his crops a little earlier than his neighbors, thus getting the pick of hands and plenty of time. His farm is on an elevated range and comprises 200 or 300 acres. Last summer, standing on the bridge of his barn as the last load of hay was taken in, he took off his hat, passed his handkerchief over his face, pulled down his vest, and gave it an extra smoothing, then, casting his eyes over the landscape where hundreds of farmers were mowing and curing their hay, and rolling them upward, remarked in the most bland and satisfying tone, "A little rain now would prove a great blessing to the crops!"

One hundred and fifty harvest hands landed here from the steamer Minneapolis on yesterday. The news of wages being $2 to $2.50 a day disgusted them.—Davenport Gazette.
